MIGHTY MITE

Small marvels are the hands of nine-year-old pianist Becky Jay, whose Bach playing won her the championship over all comers at a Victoria Music Festival session Monday. Becky demonstrates the compass of her hands on an organ keyboard as all festival pianos were busy. This morning she came first in sonata class of 26 and becomes a finalist for the sonata championship tonight. (See story, page 10.)

New Gov't Starts Work On Trade, Employment

SOUTH AFRICA CLAMPS DOWN

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—The South African government announced today drastic new powers to curb sabotage and resistance. Political observers described the measures as more sweeping than any previously sought in peace time.

Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster gave a press conference here some details of a new general law amendment bill under which courts will be empowered to impose the death penalty on anyone convicted of being trained in sabotage outside South Africa or who since 1950 advocated invasion of the country.

Police could detain suspects for recurring periods of 90 days without trial, without the courts having the power to intervene or the detained person having access to anyone without permission from the minister or the police.

Reporters who refuse to disclose sources of information about intended acts of sabotage could be so detained.

RETURNED

Pearson Heads Cabinet Group

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson today presided over his second cabinet meeting, a session which took steps to deal with Canada's trade, economic and employment problems.

"We had a useful cabinet meeting," Mr. Pearson told reporters when he emerged from the two-hour meeting.

"We set up a cabinet committee to deal with trade, economic and employment policy."

The cabinet, which he said spent most of its time on that three-pronged question, also:

Dealt with how to get the election-pledged royal commission on bicentennial established "with the least possible delay"; and began work on organizing legislation to be presented to Parliament when it meets May 16.

MEETS CIVIL SERVICE

The prime minister immediately left the East Block, after the cabinet meeting, to meet civil service heads of departments of government.

His purpose in this meeting, he said, was to "indicate my appreciation of them" and to tell them about how he and the members of the government looked forward to co-operating with them.

Mr. Pearson said he would be the chairman of the special cabinet committee on trade, economic and employment policy.

The prime minister also said he was proceeding with arrangements to meet in London with British Prime Minister Macmillan at either the end of April or beginning of May.

He had received through the United Kingdom High Commissioner, Viscount Amoy, suggested dates. The meeting is expected to take place about the middle of next week.

It is expected he will take off for London on May 1.

The prime minister disclosed he had been in touch with President Kennedy, through U.S. Ambassador to Canada Walter D. B. Wood, to arrange a meeting with the president. The meeting would be "not here nor in Washington." A U.S.-Canada border point such as Ogdensburg, N.Y., where Prime Minister King and President Roosevelt met in the early 40s is expected to be chosen for the site of the Pearson-Kennedy meeting.

Details of the meeting with Mr. Macmillan would be made public at about noon Wednesday, Mr. Pearson said.

He expected to be away "three or four days," and hoped to be able to visit Canadian forces serving in Europe, in a fast, overnight trip from London, before returning home.

PM MARKS BIRTHDAY, VANIER TOO

OTTAWA (CP)—Two men who have seen a lot of each other the last few days celebrate birthdays today.

Prime Minister Pearson will be 66.

Governor-General Vanier will be 75.

Once—in 1928 and 1929—they worked together in external affairs at Canada House in London.

Neither planned any extensive birthday festivities. Mr. Pearson is working in his second day in office and planned a cabinet meeting among other things.

Gen. Vanier suffered a mild heart attack April 9 and has been confined to bed, although fit enough to handle the constitutional duties of a government change-over.

U.S. Demands Reds Pull Back in Laos

'TAX LAND, RESOURCES INSTEAD OF INCOMES'

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Research Committee on Taxation proposed today that the federal government collect the bulk of its revenue from taxes on land and natural resources, and eliminate or reduce corporation and personal income taxes which "stifle initiative and production."

"We must take a new look at taxation and stop rehashing old ideas," said the committee—long an advocate of land taxes as a central source of revenue.

The committee told the royal commission on taxation that the proposed system would be based on an improved scale of royalties on natural resources and a land tax created by the economic conditions in each community.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. State Department called today for the withdrawal of pro-Communist forces in Laos from the territory which they have "overrun" in recent attacks against neutralist forces.

Press officer Lincoln White said the U.S. position was "that any effective cease-fire should contain provisions that the areas which have been overrun—that they should withdraw from those areas and the neutrals returned to those areas."

He noted that two major provisions remained to be fulfilled before the United States would consider the present truce really "effective."

The Communists should permit international control commission inspection teams to be stationed in the areas they control on the strategic Plain of Jars, which they still refuse to do.

The Communists should withdraw from the areas they now control as a result of attacks in recent weeks against forces of neutralist Gen. Kong Le. The United States has charged these "attacks violate the 14-nation peace agreement on Laos."

The firm U.S. statement on withdrawals came as some elements of the 7th Fleet were moved into positions near Laos as a precautionary measure.

NOMINATED

Representatives in the West German Parliament of Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democratic Party today named Minister of Economics Ludwig Erhard as their candidate to take over the chancellorship when Adenauer retires in the fall. It was a bitter blow for the 87-year-old Adenauer who had fought Erhard's designation.

Cabinet Duties To Be Shuffled

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A reshuffling of some major cabinet duties was announced by Prime Minister Pearson Monday four and a half hours after his government took office.

It was the first action by the Liberal Government, and it began what Mr. Pearson and his colleagues promised would be "60 days of decision and action" after taking power.

The main switch in cabinet responsibilities was the transfer of responsibility for the Canadian Wheat Board from the minister of agriculture to the minister of trade and commerce, now Mitchell Sharp.

Some two years ago as it promoted wheat sales to Communist China, the Diefenbaker government moved responsibility for the wheat board from the minister of trade and commerce, now Mitchell Sharp.

Mr. Sharp was deputy minister of trade and commerce in the Liberal government defeated in 1957. At that time the wheat board came under the authority of the then trade minister C. D. Howe.

Political Pressures Hinted

Since Mr. Hamilton assumed responsibility for the board, as agriculture minister, there have been suggestions that the board had come under political pressures.

One other factor believed to have influenced the Pearson move is that Canada's external wheat sales are more a matter of trade than of domestic agriculture administration.

The second major change was a transfer of responsibility for the National Housing Act and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation from public works to the minister of national revenue.

The new revenue minister is Jack Garland, MP for Nipissing, who was Liberal housing critic in the last two parliaments.

The prime minister's announcement also disclosed that the 26-man cabinet sworn into office earlier Monday would not be enlarged by the two ministers promised during the campaign by the Liberals.

These departments are a department of industry and a second minister of agriculture, to look after the interests of eastern agriculture.

Mr. Pearson said the department of industry, when legislation setting it up is approved, will incorporate the present department of defence.

'Spies for Peace' Face Crackdown

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan said today his government will hunt down and prosecute the "Spies for Peace" who disclosed civil defence secrets to the British public.

Shouts of approval greeted Macmillan's statement in the House of Commons.

He said detectives of Scotland Yard's special branch "will try by their inquiries to pin responsibility where it lies."

During the Easter holidays the "Spies for Peace," a shadowy extremist group, distributed thousands of pamphlets to marchers taking part in ban-the-bomb demonstrations.

The pamphlets disclosed the location and function of regional seats of government designed for use in the event of a nuclear attack.

The Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, which organized the ban-the-bomb marches, dissociated itself from the distribution of the pamphlets.

U.S., Cuba in New Prisoner Swap

By JAMES MARLOW

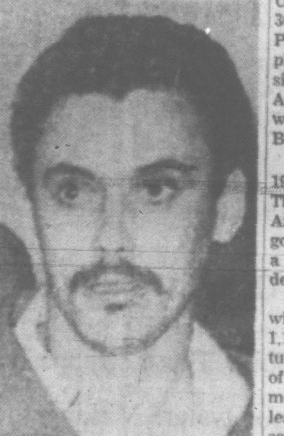

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's a strange goose-and-gander business. What's the sauce for the United States becomes sauce for communism. It spreads over islands, missiles, prisoners and national desires.

Since 1950 the United States has protected its ally, Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa, from Communist Chinese attack. The Chinese Communists claim the island, 100 miles from the mainland, is a part of China.

The Russians have moved troops into Cuba, 90 miles from the United States, to protect their ally, Premier Fidel Castro, from any direct U.S. action to abolish him and communism on the island.

Years ago the United States put missiles into Italy and Turkey, right on the Soviets' doorstep. And last fall the Russians put missiles into Cuba, on the American doorstep.

In a showdown with the U.S., Russia pulled its Cuban missiles back. But within a few weeks the United States announced it was pulling its missiles out of Italy and Turkey.

MOLINA ... he killed child

The explanation for this was that American Polaris missile submarines, roaming and hidden under the Mediterranean, are more effective.

In 1957 Col. Rudolf Abel, a Soviet spy, was captured in the United States and sentenced to 30 years. In 1960 Francis Gary Powers, piloting a U.S. U-2 spy plane, was shot down over Russia and jailed. In 1961 another American, Frederick L. Pryor, was jailed as a spy in East Berlin.

The United States in Feb. 10, 1962, agreed to swap prisoners: The one Russian for the two Americans. The deal was negotiated by James B. Donovan, a New York lawyer who had defended Abel.

Last year Donovan negotiated with Castro for the release of 1,113 anti-Castro rebels captured when their 1961 invasion of Cuba failed. Castro also let more than 900 of their relatives leave Cuba. They were ransomed.

The price—at least the price that is known—was $53,000,000 in drugs and baby food which was reported to have been contributed free by big American corporations.

Donovan represented the Cuban Families Committee for the Liberation of Prisoners of War. But the administration of President Kennedy had a hand in it.

FREEES 5,000

The Associated Press reports Donovan has also managed to get Castro to free 5,000 people from Cuba. The latest came Monday and this was definitely a swap.

Donovan got Castro to release 21 Americans from Cuban jails and flew back to Miami with them. And Monday Attorney-General Kennedy freed two Cubans and a Cuban-American held in New York on sabotage conspiracy charges since last November. Kennedy said it was done in the national interest.

And Monday night New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller freed Francisco (the Hook) Molina del Rio, a Cuban under a 30-year sentence in New York State prison for slaying a nine-year-old girl. A wild bullet hit her during a fight between pro and anti-Castro Cubans on a street in New York City.

Rockefeller said he had done so upon the assurance of the federal government the move would help secure the release of the 21 Americans who were freed earlier in the day by Castro.

Castro emptied his dungeons of all American prisoners except one—longtime enemy Monday.

He also promised to allow 800 to 1,000 Cubans to leave the island later this week as part of the deal.

'Deadbeats' Of Royalty At Wedding?

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Mirror stinging attacks "royal deadbeats," attending the wedding here Wednesday of Princess Alexandra and wealthy businessman Angus Ogilvy.

Hitting out at members of Europe's former royal families, the 4,600,000-circulation newspaper asks in a two-column editorial: "What's going on?"

It goes on to ask whether the wedding of the 26-year-old cousin of Queen Elizabeth and the son of a titled Scottish family is a "marriage between two popular young people" or a publicity campaign for "Europe's busted-down, pensioned off, forgotten but not buried ex-royals from Austria, Spain and Italy?"

The Mirror adds: "Why should the Alex-Angus romance degenerate into a rollicking romp at Windsor (a pre-wedding ball was held at Windsor Castle Monday night) for royal exiles, pretenders and pensioners? Is this the welfare state or the royal welfare morgue?"

"Of all people, the Count of Paris is here—the fellow who laughingly calls himself the head of the French royal house."

"Why should the British public be expected to kow-tow to these royal deadbeats who were sacked by their own people years ago?"

BEN-ZVI
... dead at 78

Israelis Mourn President

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Flags flew at half staff throughout Israel after the death today of President Yitzhak Ben-Zvi, plunging the country into mourning. He was 78.

The president's coffin was placed in a ceremonial hall and candles were lit on the bier while army chaplains intoned psalms.

The government announced independence day celebrations marking the country's 15th anniversary next week have been cancelled because of Ben-Zvi's death.

The funeral was expected to be held in Jerusalem Wednesday afternoon.

Ben-Zvi's great friend, Premier David Ben-Gurion, presided at a brief cabinet session to mourn the president.

An official announcement said Ben-Zvi, second president of Israel, was "gathered to his people on the 29th of Nissan 5723, April 23, 1963."

Aides said his last words, spoken during a few minutes of consciousness, were "Shma Israel." "Hear, O Israel."

Kadish Luz, speaker of the Knesset, will act as head of state pending elections by the Knesset of a new president within 30 days.

RE-ELECTED TWICE

Ben-Zvi was chosen as Israel's second president in 1952, a month after President Chaim Weizmann's death. He was twice re-elected, for the second time last December.

The tall, bespectacled scholar, known both as "a man of the book and a man of action," cut an austere figure in Israel's national life.

He was famous for the wooden hut he lived in for more than 30 years in what later became one of Jerusalem's most fashionable suburbs.

To Israelis, Ben-Zvi's wooden hut denoted his austerity and modesty despite his climb to fame as a scholar and writer.

Born in Poltava, Ukraine, in 1884, when his family were exiled to Siberia by czarist authorities on charges of socialist Zionism.

Ben-Zvi escaped and helped organize the labor movement in Palestine among the small Jewish community there before, the birth of Israel.

He also helped create Hashomer, a forerunner of Haganah, the underground citizen army which spearheaded the struggle for an independent Jewish state.

FREDERICTON (CP)—Louis J. Robichaud, the Acadian who realized an ambition by becoming premier of New Brunswick before he was 35, led his Liberal government back into power in Monday's provincial election.

The Liberals, elected to a second term, increased their majority in the legislature by carrying the Progressive Conservative stronghold of Saint John city.

Final standings:

Liberal	1963 1960
Conservative	34 31
Total	18 21

No other parties contested the election.

With 60 polls still unreported, it was apparent the vote total would be well below 1960's record 783,399. The total from 1,337 of 1,397 polls was 737,835 of which Liberals received 382,063 and PCs 355,772.

These figures do not represent the number of voters since all New Brunswick's ridings are multiple seats and an elector may cast as many votes as there are members in his constituency. There were approximately 300,000 eligible voters this election.

The Liberals picked up the four Saint John City seats, held since 1952 by PCs, but lost one to the Conservatives in Victoria for a net gain of three. The remaining 47 seats were unchanged.

CABINET RE-ELECTED

All members of Mr. Robichaud's cabinet were re-elected. With 95.7 per cent of the polls reported, the Liberal share of the party vote was 51.8 per cent, Conservative 48.2 per cent. In 1960 the Liberals received 53.4 per cent, the PCs 46.2 and independents the remaining fraction.

Mr. Robichaud, 37, won the premiership in 1960, when the Liberals upset the Progressive Conservative government of Hugh John Flemming.

Even after the election was conceded, freshman P.C. leader C. B. (Cy) Sherwood continued to hammer away at the most contentious issue of the campaign — the government's deal with an Italian firm for establishment of a pulp mill on the Miramichi River.

Mr. Sherwood contended during the campaign that the government "sold out" valuable timber rights on Crown land in the Miramichi area. He pledged a judicial inquiry into the deal if elected. He said Monday night his party would press for the inquiry when the legislature sits May 15.

Mr. Robichaud saw the victory as "very positive endorsement" of the negotiations for the mill.

'ORGANIZED HYPOCRISY' DEFEATS SWEEPSTAKE

TORONTO (CP)—Coun. Allan Lamport said Monday his efforts to gain an annual sweepstake in Toronto have been blocked by an "organized hypocrisy." The sweepstake plan was turned down by the board of control by a 4-to-1 vote. The controller said 130 hospitals have been built in Ireland from proceeds of the Irish Sweepstakes.

Move to Revive Test Ban Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States and British ambassadors plan to see Premier Khrushchev Wednesday in an effort to revive the Soviet Union's flagging interest in a nuclear test ban.

This could eventually lead to a higher level meeting—at the summit or at foreign ministers level—which might deal with other East-West issues, too.

U.S. sources said it was premature to predict that such a meeting will take place. Washington advisers feel the time is not ripe. It was understood, however, that President Kennedy has not closed the door on the possibility.

Washington and London agree on the need for getting Russia to join in a treaty to outlaw nuclear testing—the sooner the better, they say, in order to prevent a spread of atomic weapons to nations which don't have them now.

'WE'RE LIKE BLOOD BROTHERS'

WASHINGTON (CP)—Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield has called for a new era of closer Canada-U.S. relations, suggesting parliamentarians from the two countries meet soon to attempt to settle differences across the conference table.

As Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson took office as prime minister at Ottawa, the Montana Democrat rose in the U.S.

Senate to suggest "it is time to say to our Canadian friends that we should both do our utmost to keep alive and encourage the warmth and friendship which we both have for one another."

Noting that his own state has the longest border with Canada, Mansfield said people in Montana look on their Canadian neighbors in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan as "almost as blood brothers."

Mansfield suggested that Senator George Aiken, Vermont Republican, confer with Canadian parliamentarians to prepare the way for a series of meetings. He proposed the meetings be held not only in the two capitals but also in other cities, such as Vancouver, Edmonton and Regina, or Seattle and Spokane.

TERROR - OR HELP FOR THE DRUG ADDICT

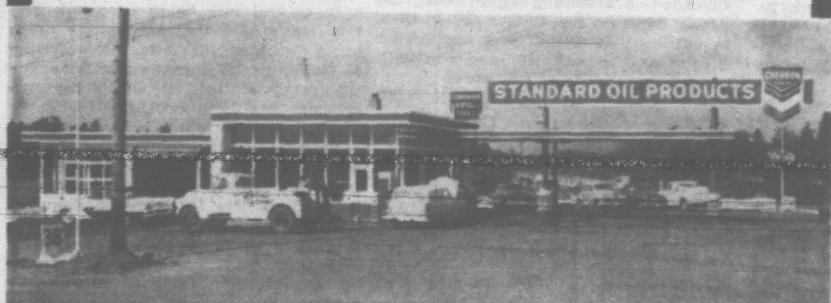

In Canada drug addiction is a crime. Addicts must evade the law to procure their daily needs, often turning to theft and prostitution to pay the prohibitive prices of illegal pushers. In England addiction is not a crime. Drugs are cheap, and users may follow a program of psychiatric treatment and systematic withdrawal. To Manage Our Affairs

THE PROOF OF ANY CABINET pudding is in the eating. No one can foresee the future or measure the collective strength of the new Pearson administration, but the list of ministers announced yesterday includes some names already firmly established in national politics and some promising newcomers.

Around the prime minister himself, as always in the past, an unofficial inner cabinet is certain to emerge. Messrs. Martin, Gordon, Sharp, Pickersgill, Chevrier, Hellyer and Drury evidently form this upper echelon of experienced leaders.

Three recruits to the government bring with them a wide experience in business. Mr. Gordon, minister of finance, is a successful businessman and author of the national economic report bearing his name. Mr. Sharp, former deputy minister of trade and commerce, returns to that department as minister after some years in private business. He has a unique knowledge of foreign trade which will be extremely valuable in the next two years of world-wide tariff negotiations. Mr. Drury was once deputy minister of defence and later a successful industrialist.

Mr. Martin has equipped himself for the external affairs department by notable service in the United Nations.

The prestigious portfolio of Justice was earned by Mr. Chevrier in many years of distinguished parliamentary experience as a member of the former Liberal government, as head of the St. Lawrence Seaway and as House leader of the former opposition. His appointment also recognizes French Canada's vital contribution to national affairs and his extraordinarily courageous personal campaign against Social Credit in Quebec.

The relatively minor office of secretary of state awarded to Mr. Pickersgill is obviously intended to leave him free of heavy administrative duties so that he may be able to devote himself to broad national policy and the leadership of the House of Commons, a post of the highest importance.

As perhaps the ablest of our parliamentarians he is well equipped to manage the government's legislative program in the necessarily frequent absences of the prime minister.

Mr. Hellyer, a young man of brief experience in the St. Laurent government and the powerful military critic of the Liberal opposition, established his claim to the defence department by his unequalled knowledge of its problems and his courage on the issue of nuclear weapons.

The public is well acquainted with these gentlemen but has yet to estimate the quality of a younger group. It will be especially interested in such ministers as Messrs. Lamontagne and Favreau in Quebec, Mr. MacEachen in Nova Scotia and Miss La Marsh in Ontario.

British Columbia is well represented by Messrs. Laing and Nicholson, the former an experienced federal and provincial politician, the latter an able businessman and lawyer now concerned with this province's largest industry of forests.

But there is an inevitable weakness in the Pearson cabinet as it stands now. From the Great Lakes to the Rockies the prime minister has only three elected supporters, two of whom have entered the ministry. No one represents Saskatchewan since it sent a solid delegation of Conservatives to Parliament. That leaves one province without cabinet representation for the present through no fault of the prime minister.

Perhaps this gap can be filled later on at a by-election. In any case the first priority of the Liberal government in practical politics must be to strengthen itself on the Prairies before the next general election.

On the whole the government as it begins work is far stronger in experience, ability and clarity of intention than its predecessor. Since everybody's affairs are now in its hands the whole Canadian people will wish it success in the most complex problems ever faced by a new ministry in modern times.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR A ONE-million-dollar building for the combined YM-YWCA now moves home to Greater Victoria and local donors should be encouraged by the fact that nearly half of the total amount has already been provided by outside contributors.

These include national and British Columbia corporations whose recognition of the worthy job done by the two Y's has been matched by their generosity toward the local campaign.

Now it is the turn of Greater

Victoria business firms and special donors to show their appreciation of a movement which for generations has served youth. The buildings now occupied by both organizations have long passed the point of economical use. Increasing amounts must be spent on rehabilitating the structures.

It is an appropriate moment—with more and more young people needing the YM and YW outlets for sports, handicrafts, fitness and other programs—to build a worthy and usable headquarters for their joint endeavors.

Separatism—From Earnings

MR. LUCIEN G. ROLLAND IS president and general manager of the successful Rolland Paper Company. As such he is a big employer in Quebec and enjoys respect throughout the province and the rest of Canada.

He has recently sounded a note of warning to fellow Canadians of French extraction in Quebec.

"The Quebec economy is much intertwined with that of the rest of Canada," he says, "and large industries have a wonderful opportunity of locating mills in the province and of selling an important percentage of their production throughout the rest of Canada."

"It is this opportunity that our company is exploiting. The quality of the goods that we produce in Quebec and the service that we give are now readily accepted anywhere in Canada."

This company is fortunately one of the largest concerns controlled and operated by Canadians of French expression, but it finds in the markets outside the province as much as 60 per cent of its business.

"This opportunity should not be belittled especially in view of the difficulties and costs for most of our secondary industries in penetrating the American market. I feel duty bound to warn my compatriots, whose pride and ambitions I share in every way, against the implications of nationalistic isolationism and beg them to soberly assess the inevitable economic losses that a separation would bring about."

These words are not expected to influence the unbalanced lunatic fringe of Quebec's separatists, the ones using bombs, violence and threats in an effort to promote "liberation." The warning should, however, be heard by the more rational Quebec people who are toying with the idea of separatism. Any translation of the idea into actuality, as Mr. Rolland points out, could be fraught with the gravest economic consequences.

The Growing Compact

WHEN THE NORTH AMERICAN automobile industry finally reacted to the competition provided by the makers of small European cars, the "compact" was evolved.

This was, and is, a vehicle that reversed the prevailing trend to bigger and more powerful machines, and offered a measure of economy and convenience.

Its success was almost immediate—as the compact "population" here and elsewhere on the continent indicates.

But, points out an American newspaper, the American automobile industry seems to be travelling the same road in the development of compacts as it did with the big car.

Current emphasis is being laid on the "roomier" compact, the machine with more power. In the near future, suggests the American newspaper, it will be difficult to tell the "bigger and better" compact from the standard model.

Then, it seems, the whole process will have to be repeated. The small European designer will claim a large part of the market again and makers of bigger compacts will have to revert to compact compacts once more.

The American newspaper thinks enlarging the compact doesn't make much sense—a point on which many people will agree.

The Kremlin: Curiouser and Curiouser

By JOSEPH ALSOP

THE noises creeping out of the Communist bloc are getting curiouser and curiouser, as it was so well put in "Alice." The loudest and most persistent of these noises suggests that the years of Nikita S. Khrushchev's supremacy in the Soviet Union are drawing to a close.

The French press has just published a rather confident prediction that Khrushchev will yield his place as head of the Soviet government to Frol Kozlov, when the Central Committee meets in Moscow in a few weeks' time.

These stories by able French reporters reflect a near-state of hints, insiders' tips, and direct warnings that Western European intelligence services have lately been getting from European satellite sources, from talkative members of the Italian and other Western Communist parties, and even from sources in Moscow itself.

The hints and tips take many forms, as is natural. But the majority suggest that Khrushchev will retain the more important of his two offices, his place as First Secretary of the Communist Party, while handing over control of the administrative apparatus to Kozlov.

In parallel, so to say, is another near-state of more firmly based reports from the Far East. The Chinese Communists first denounced Khrushchev by name at party meetings, including meetings at very low levels, a good many months ago.

Another round of comparable denunciations has now started significantly after the Soviet invitation to Sino-Soviet negotiations and the conditional Chinese acceptance.

The theme of the new meetings is, quite simply, that Khrushchev must go. Some weeks ago, the Communist theoretical journal, the World Marxist Review, published in Prague, charged the Chinese with attempting to promote changes in "leadership" of the Communist party.

But it is a considerable step from the kind of underground intrigues the Marxist Review seems to be talking about to party pep rallies with "Khrushchev must go" as their theme.

How to interpret these strikingly peculiar noises from the Communist bloc remains a question much debated among the European experts on Soviet affairs. What happens to Khrushchev personally is less important, of course, than what happens to the Soviet Union over which he has presided for so long.

Yet the two questions are interlinked. Khrushchev on the whole has stood for letting more air into the airless Soviet society, for decentralization of power, for lightening the dead hand of authoritarianism, for considering the people's welfare as well as the state's strength.

If this direction in the Soviet development is now being reversed—if there is a new trend toward airlessness, authoritarianism, and general harshness and toughness, as seems to be the case—the change of national direction may well have involved a change in Khrushchev's personal position.

The seeming change of direction in fact lends some additional credence to the rumors that Khrushchev's position is about to change. The reports from the Far East are also semi-confirmatory.

Concerning these last, it is hard to see why the Chinese Communist leaders are going out on the limb denouncing the ordinary cadres of the party that "Khrushchev must go" unless the men at the top in Peking have considerable hope that Khrushchev really is about to go. In short, all the elements in the pattern are mutually consistent, except for the fact that Khrushchev seems to be tranquilly vacationing in the Crimea.

Even if Khrushchev retains the party secretaryship and merely yields the premiership to Kozlov, Khrushchev's setback will be severe. Kozlov was designated by Khrushchev as his most probable heir to Gov. Averell Harriman, rather more than two years ago; but it seems fairly clear that Kozlov has been the real leader of the opposition to Khrushchev.

Kozlov was indicated in this role at the very height of the Cuban crisis, when Pravda prominently and mysteriously published a poem by Yevushenko on "Stalin's Heirs." The poem contained a pointed mention that some of Stalin's heirs had had heart attacks—as Kozlov notoriously has had. According to reports, he is a narrow, sly, stodgy, intensely conservative "apparatchik"—a "Communist Karenin who has got fat" as a Polish Communist once told this reporter.

Such a man might well rally the elements in the party and the armed services that have been shocked by Khrushchev's goings-on and angered, especially since Cuba, by his failures.

But this having been said, there must also be added that Khrushchev has shown an unsurpassed knack of survival in the most murderous political contest on earth.

Maybe we should be less impressed by the rumors about Khrushchev's difficulties than by his Crimean vacationing. Maybe the symptoms of the change in direction in the Soviet Union are merely indications that Khrushchev has been paying a rather heavy price to the opposition, in order to keep his power and his place. No one will really know what the situation is until the Central Committee meeting in mid-May.

A Heritage Bequeathed by Our Forefathers

By HOWARD O'HAGAN

Queenie at work, with her glossy coat and placid eye, has been a happy and vital feature of the park. In a pen, no fit place for a horse, her status and value are diminished.

Beacon Hill Park was not made a sanctuary as a means of saving money—if, indeed, Queenie's retirement brings this about. The park is there to preserve certain often forgotten values for the city dweller.

If, however, to save money is now the intent of its administrators, they might attack one source of the wastage and, rather than doing away with Queenie as a work-horse, do away with the deciduous trees. They could carry economy further by uprooting the flower-beds, thereby saving on gardeners' wages and the cost of seed.

An ultimate solution, involving only a few weeks of work with dynamite, power saws and bulldozers would be to drain the ponds—after chasing away the ducks and swans—cut down all the trees and level the park. When, as would naturally follow, it is covered with asphalt, it will then be, perhaps, the most extensive parking lot west of Chicago—providing that in the meanwhile the Mojave Desert remains unimproved.

In the dead centre of the parking lot will be a golden statue of Queenie, one which, following local tradition—the fountain behind the Parliament Buildings was designed by a civil servant and the one in prospect for the Centennial Square has been handed over to the city architect—will be untouched by a known sculptor's hand. I suggest that not one, but a committee of unknown civic servants plans the statue, thereby ensuring anonymity.

It has been said that "a camel is a horse planned by a committee." Queenie, therefore, will probably emerge from the statue in the likeness of a camel. This need be no cause for dismay because on the base of the statue in bold letters will be the inscription, "The Camel That Once Was Queenie, a Female Horse."

Thus, though lacking in semblance, the statue will stand as a memorial to the female horse whose retirement, step by inevitable step, led to the eradication, the "rooting up," of Beacon Hill Park, which during her lifetime she served, and to the laying out in its stead of the widest and longest parking lot west of Chicago—assuming again that the people down on the Mojave fail in their opportunity. It would be a monument unique on the continent and one with no vexing problem of upkeep.

Safety Hint

I was crossing a somewhat dimly-lit street and I was wearing fairly dark clothing, a motor car was approaching fast, so I pulled a white handkerchief from my pocket and let it wave in the breeze.

I thought that this might be a help to other old age pensioners when they are out at night and making crossings on some of the dark streets.

A moving thing is easily seen and thus waving a handkerchief may keep some from getting hurt or killed.

Deaf Ears

Not having three or four cats in our household which howl ungodly sounds at night and tear up newly-arranged garden rows and despoil flower beds, nor any dogs which in concert with all the others in a surprisingly-limited area bark and yap at monstrously-ecophonous tempo to preclude any possibility of a quiet hour in the garden, I thought of depositing our radio, at full blast, in the middle of our yard, as Machiavellian retaliation, till I realized that people who let their cats and dogs be consistent nuisance to other people, aren't likely to be sensitive enough to appreciate the action.

Congratulating John Gough

My heartiest congratulations to school superintendent John Gough for his stand against the Jaycees. In my opinion he is 100 per cent right. It is unfortunate that anyone who makes a stand for principles is labelled a bigot, but if that is the case I believe there are still a lot of us around.

It seems to me that a worthwhile Junior Chamber of Commerce should have better things to do than prowling the streets and schools looking for entrants in a bathing beauty contest.

School Board vs. Jaycees

The dramatic reporting by the press of the school board's discussion on students' participation in the Miss Victoria Contest has benefited no one.

The district superintendent may have used poetic licence to make his point to the board, but the purpose was to discourage rather than encourage students to regulate their studies to this type of activity.

In considering the Jaycees' request to canvass the schools for candidates in the contest, it was not decided to condemn the contest but to not support recruitment in the schools and to view with disfavor the participation by students.

I appreciate feminine beauty, talent, intelligence and endorse the Miss Victoria Contest, but I do believe that an abundance of qualified applicants can be found in this fair city of ours without interfering with the education of our youth.

It is gratifying to note that trustees gave unanimous approval to the superintendent's recommendation on this matter. Our responsibility is to promote education, not to promote distraction by canvassing in the schools.

Shelters

Manchester Guardian Weekly

THE "Spies for Peace," authors of the document distributed to the Aldermaston marchers and others recently, have succeeded in amassing a lot of people, as they intended. They have perhaps added one—or possibly three—low-priority targets to the list of those that an enemy might want to attack in a nuclear war.

They have alerted the government to the risk of security leakages among the many voluntary workers in the upper ranks of civil defence, as among the permanent staffs. They have also spread the impression—a false one—that underground regional headquarters are intended to keep "privileged occupants" alive when the mass of British people are dead. From the authors' stand, no doubt this was a good weekend's work.

That wartime regional headquarters exist is hardly a surprise. The Defence White Papers of 1961, 1962 and 1963 each stated that a scheme for emergency control was being prepared; and this year's said that among the items being "speeded up" was the provision of buildings and communications for emergency control. Generally the government has been criticized for doing too little about civil defence.

It has had the fair excuse that in so many ways the population was concentrated as these it would be impossible to build shelters for large numbers except at a cost out of all relation to the defence program as a whole. It has done little more than maintain a standby organization designed mainly to help the survivors afterwards in those areas not totally destroyed by nuclear fire and blast or not totally contaminated by fallout.

One can easily poke fun at some of the things that have been done—the announcement that maroons would be used in the warning system, for example—but the intention of the preparations seems sensible, if modest.

For the government, another security leak is embarrassing. It cannot afford to treat any leak lightly—even if some are more serious than others, and even if this one is not in the top class. Its public effect has been heightened by the hue and cry and by the action of two newspapers in quoting (apparently because of a misunderstanding) an official statement that the document was "a serious breach of the Official Secrets Act."

Still, the fact that some kind of secret installation existed near the marchers' route could not have been concealed once the document had been published.

...REPORTING

OTTAWA—John Diefenbaker has taken leave of the office of prime minister with quiet heroics reminiscent of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's pledge at Bataan that "I shall return."

But whether Mr. Diefenbaker and the stuffed blue-fin marlin he caught in the Caribbean ever again occupy the PM's office in the East Block rests first with his party. Before the voters have another chance to decide whether to "follow John," the Conservative Party has to make this same decision.

At the moment Tories are confused, divided and dismayed, their morale shattered, their party machinery a shambles, their political future uncertain, with many eyes straining for sight of a new Moses.

But even worse, the party has lost the broad base that gave it strength—its geographical breadth and its appeal to both urban and rural voters. It is now little more than an agrarian party, with towering strength in the grain-growing prairies, surprising strength in rural Ontario, and pockets of strength in the Maritimes.

The Tory survivors of April 8 who now make up the official opposition in the Commons are mainly the neo-Tories of Diefenbakerism rather than the true-blue Conservatives of the old Tory party who formed the opposition in the years of George Drew.

If Diefenbaker can count on their continuing support, he will be in a strong position to keep his job.

Any move to dump him could cost the party its present rural strength. But any failure to dump him could cost the party its chance of making a comeback in the eastern provinces and British Columbia.

Not even the Liberals desire that, and for a purely selfish reason: if a political vacuum persists to the right of centre the Liberals will inexorably be propelled to wards it by pressure from the New Democrats. And it is important to the future of Liberalism that the Grits stay to the left of centre, maintaining their image as a reform party.

The strength of Diefenbaker's position within his party is that the true-blues—the people who always opposed him but who dared only whisper when the whole nation was following John—have no leader. Donald Fleming has retired from politics, George Hees is discredited, Premier Roblin of Manitoba appears aligned with Diefenbaker—so what is there to do except endure what for the moment at least can't be cured?

Besides, despite all Diefenbaker's shortcomings as a prime minister, he made—and could make again—a commanding leader in opposition. He has guts, fight, political savvy and parliamentary know-how in measure that no tyro in the Commons—say, Duff Roblin—could match for many years.

If time heals all wounds, perhaps a rapprochement can even be brought about between Diefenbaker and the "press barons" of Toronto and the "forces of Bay Street" and St. James Street that he baited and damned this spring.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Watch Your Head!

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For 16 years Stephen Spingarn, a former member of the federal trade commission, toiled around in a 1946 sedan. Life was good then.

But a couple of months ago, disaster struck. His faithful old conveyance succumbed to fatigue and Spingarn was forced to go out shopping for a new car.

"It was then that I discovered," he said in relating his adventures, "that I had become a Rip Van Winkle among motorists."

His rude awakening came when he tried to get in one of the 1963 models. First he banged his head on the roof. Then he cracked his knee cap on the steering column.

"To my amazement, I found that the cars I thought had been getting bigger were only getting bigger on the outside," he said. "On the inside they had been shrinking."

"They are fine for cobras and other reptiles that can crawl in on their bellies, but a man has got to creep into his own car like a midnight thief. Then he has got to curl up in the natal position before he can drive it."

Spingarn, who stands just under six-feet-two and weighs 250 pounds, test-entered every make of car that, sell for less than $3,000, picking up new abrasions along the way.

"The only way I avoided a concussion was by training myself to stop and say, 'look out, Spingarn! Don't bump your head again!' before I opened the door," he said.

At some point, possibly as a result of too many lumps on the cranium, Spingarn changed from a Rip Van Winkle into a sort of latter day Captain Ahab.

He lost all interest in mileage and other performance features and became obsessed with the pursuit of an auto whose portals permitted easy ingress and egress. They were even rarer than white whales.

Finally, Spingarn found a dealer who promised to remove the front seat back and reinstall it four inches farther to the rear. Being a lawyer, Spingarn made him put it in writing.

Then he carried the signed stipulation to another dealer, who agreed to match the terms. But, it turned out that the seat tracks on some cars can only be moved back about two inches.

Nothing could be done about the roof and this is what has prompted Spingarn to organize the "inner space crusade." Its aim is to bring pressure on the auto makers to produce in at least a limited edition a model with a high roof and abundant leg room.

Many recruits have been rallying around the "inner space" banner, including Sen. Edwin L. Mechem, R-N.M., who is six-feet-three and who offered to make it a "bi-partisan revolt."

I personally, however, am not interested in joining such a crusade. I'm holding out for one of those cars shown in the U-drive-it commercials where the driver floats down from the sky.

Kennedy Lauds New Encyclical As Great Instrument of Peace

BOSTON — President Kennedy has praised the new encyclical of Pope John XXIII, "Pacem in Terris" (peace on earth), as a remarkable document that had given him much encouragement.

Mr. Kennedy said that as a Catholic he was proud of the encyclical and as an American he had learned from it. He said it led him to believe that mankind is "learning to talk the language of progress and peace across the barriers of sect and creed."

Evidently he had in mind Communist praise of Pope John's peace appeal, although the Kremlin itself has not yet joined in this praise.

President Kennedy spoke at Boston College, a 100-year-old Jesuit school, which awarded him the honorary degree of laws in 1956. This was the first time he had spoken at a Catholic institution of learning since he moved into the White House.

PENETRATING

In the prepared text of his address, the chief executive said:

"I am much encouraged by a careful reading, in this last week, of the remarkable encyclical, 'Pacem in Terris.' In its penetrating analysis of today's great problems—of social welfare and human rights—of disarmament, international order and peace—that document surely shows that on the basis of one great faith and its tradition there can be developed counsel on public affairs that is of value to all men and women of goodwill.

"As a Catholic I am proud of it, and as an American I have learned from it.

"It only adds to the impact of this message that it closely matches notable expressions of conviction and aspiration from churchmen of other faiths—as in recent documents of the World Council of Churches—and from outstanding world citizens with no ecclesiastical standing."

Pope John's encyclical evoked widespread praise before Mr. Kennedy spoke out. Particularly newsworthy has been the favorable reaction of Communist spokesmen and publications. This, on top of exchanges between the Pope and Soviet Premier Nikita S.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months. This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Woody Phlox Crowns Must Go

Phlox is one of the perennials which tends to make a crown of quite hard wood and the shoots which come from this portion are often spindly because their food supply is restricted. One way around this condition is to cut the old stems below soil level in the fall. This leaves nothing above ground to become woody.

The new spring growths then come from the top of the roots and are usually twice as stout as those from the base of an old stem.

At this time of year there is not much to be done about stems which were cut too high last year because the new shoots have already started.

The only solution that is practical now is to take the new growths as cuttings, root them in a sand-soil-peat moss mixture and thus obtain new plants devoid of any crown.

The growths are cut about three to four inches long, the lower leaves removed, and the stem cut squarely across with a razor blade directly below the little bump where the lowest leaves were located.

The end of the stem may be dipped into one of the proprietary rooting powders if you wish, but be sure to tap off all excess powder before inserting the cutting into the rooting mixture.

Some gardeners start new phlox plants this way every year. The young plants put up only a single stem, but the size and quality of flowers is amazing compared with those from the old parent plant.

A three-inch pot will hold about four or five cuttings around the edge, and after being soaked and drained the pot can be put into a plastic bag deep enough to take pot and cuttings and leave two or three inches of air space at the top. The bag is tightly closed with a rubber band or a twisted plant tie.

Outlook for the U.S. economy has brightened since last fall, according to a survey of 65 of the nation's leading economists conducted by Business Week magazine.

Instead of the mild recession in the early part of this year which had been predicted, the economy is now in a "quasi-recession" from which recovery was rapid.

Cyclical forces, most of the economists agree, will push the economy into higher ground from now on. Economists in this country cannot help but be cheered by the prospect of a stronger recovery in the U.S. Even a mild recession in the U.S. at this point would greatly complicate the already difficult economic task ahead of the new government.

In the survey, 56 per cent of the economists justified their optimism by citing three main areas of improvement: rising capital spending, a boost in government spending and no sign of a letup in consumer demand.

There are, however, some negative factors which will keep the economy from surging ahead into any wild boom.

These include a widening belief that there will not be any significant tax cuts this year which will be a psychological damper to business and consumers. Persistence of unemployment, owing to rapid growth of the labor force, and the U.S. balance-of-payments problem which will continue to force monetary authorities to keep the business expansion under restraint.

These factors, of course, are also operating in the Canadian economy with the significant difference that not only are tax cuts impossible, but there is concern that increased taxes are a very real threat.

About 16 per cent of the economists surveyed by Business Week were less optimistic than the majority. They worried about the excessive build-up in steel inventories, the balance of payments and some slowdown in housing and auto sales.

Even the pessimists, though, could not see anything resembling a recession in the year ahead.

World requirements for dissolving pulps have remained firm during the first quarter of this year resulting in continued strong demand from the Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. mill at Prince Rupert, president Paul M. Marshall said at the annual meeting.

In spite of substantial overcapacity of sulphite paper pulps in world markets, the company expects that sales this year will exceed 1962.

Although competition for sales continues to be vigorous, the over-all market in North America and overseas appears to be firm.

Sales and net income of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. were at a record level for the first three months this year, according to president G. H. Gallaway. Total sales were $28,842,000, an increase of 11 per cent over the first quarter of 1962.

Net income at $2,950,000 was up 22 per cent over the same period last year.

Pulp and paper production for the three months was at a high level.

Commenting on the $36 million expansion program at the Elk Falls plant, he said that one of the key phases of the project, the speeding up of No. 2 newsprint machine, has been started.

It is expected this will be completed in June and will add 40,000 tons of newsprint to the company's over-all production.

ATOM POWER FOR CARS IN 10 YEARS?

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of Chrysler Corporation of Canada says automobiles could be nuclear powered within 10 years.

On a western Canadian sweep from his Windsor, Ont., headquarters, Ron W. Todgham said here Monday the next decade will see "quite a revolution in the various modes of propulsion."

He said research and design in the nuclear field are already being carried out.

Containers Speed Up Freight Handling

MONCTON (CP)—Canadian National Railways has had such success with a simplified system of handling its Newfoundland freight and express delivery traffic that it plans to use the method more.

Several moves to pack more parcels in aluminum or steel containers for shipment from Sydney, N.S., to Port aux Basques, Nfld., were announced here last week by Howard C. Grayson, vice-president of the CNR's Atlantic region.

The system is deceptively simple but has met with unusual success. It reduces handling of goods and speeds traffic.

Mr. Grayson said 114 conventional aluminum containers were being added to those already in service and 122 advanced models would be used to organize a new shipping branch.

Stellarton and Halifax in Nova Scotia and several Newfoundland communities between Port aux Basques and Bishop's Falls will be added to the CNR's network using the new method. Development of the system stemmed from the problem of handling the numerous small parcels shipped across the Cabot Strait. It was necessary to pack them in railway cars at their point of origin, unpack them at the ferry terminal, stow them aboard ship and remove and repack them in railway cars after the crossing. The large containers are transported to and from ferry terminals on flat cars.

Copper Faces Wider Use By 1970

TORONTO (CP)—The free world's use of copper will have increased by 37 per cent in 1970 compared with 1962, a leading figure in the industry predicted today.

K. H. J. Clarke, president of the Canadian Copper and Brass Development Association and manager of Canadian sales and market development for International Nickel Co. of Canada, told a meeting of the Canadian Secondary Materials Association.

"The potential copper needs of the future are becoming clearer . . . The 1962 figures indicate free-world supply and consumption at about 4,600,000 short tons. Recently estimated 1970 projections indicate a use in the vicinity of 6,000,000 short tons, 37 per cent in excess of the 1962 volume."

Mr. Clarke also said "long-range prospects for increased nickel consumption remain excellent, and the use of nickel in 1963 is expected to equal or exceed the high levels of recent years."

SIDELINE SLANTS

BY

Doug Peden

Because they only bet on their own teams, it was inevitable that Pete Rozelle, National Football League commissioner, would hear accusations that he was too rough on Paul Hornung and Alex Karras last week.

Some people are still saying the athletes were merely being naughty. Boys will be boys and that sort of thing. No harm was done, and what is the sin in betting on your own team?

Karras and Hornung didn't fix any ball games, deal in treachery by betting on the opposition, or give less than their best in any game, according to Rozelle's evidence. The why did he lower the boom, handing out suspensions that could amount to their expulsion from pro football?

The severity of the sentences makes it apparent there was something in their actions that Rozelle couldn't accept as mere naughtiness. It was not only the wagering that Hornung and Karras did, but the pattern of it. There was too much of it. Betting had become a habit.

Thus did the commissioner distinguish between the sins of the two suspended players and the five Detroit mates of Karras, who were chastised with $2,000 fines. In the case of those five, Rozelle was able to be more forgiving because theirs was a one-time transgression with no evidence any had a betting pattern.

Hornung's betting on games went back to 1957, Rozelle said his investigations had disclosed. Karras started wagering on pro football games in 1958. This possible addiction was the serious sin. There was no suggestion it might lead to worse offences, but any gambler knows temptation to arrange a sure-thing bet is great with losers with money troubles.

Point-Spread Is Dangerous Element

It was enough to make Rozelle toss them out of football for at least one year, perhaps longer. The last time an NFL commissioner—Bert Bell—handed out indefinite suspensions they were to Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes. Before they were reinstated, Filchock had been banned for four years, Hapes eight.

What Rozelle and any thinking person knows is that it is improper for a football player to bet on games in which he is playing, even though he may be wagering on his own club. There is more to it than his agreeing to league rules—designed to keep the game clean and above suspicion—when he signed his contract.

In football and basketball wagering there is an infernal element that makes betting by a contestant a particularly suspicious pastime. This is the point-spread, on which a good part of gambling is based.

A player doesn't need to throw a game to win his bet. He can play to keep down his team's points in winning a wager. This point-control could give a player an unfair advantage over the bookmaker and betting fan. And if his point-shaving is done unwisely or too early in a game, it could result in an undesired defeat for his team.

Rozelle is convinced Hornung and Karras were not associated with any point-shaving but if betting of any kind is unchecked it could open the door for others to indulge in point manipulation. And there is no excuse. Notices posted in every NFL clubhouse remind players that betting on a game could lead to suspension for life.

Why Did Hornung Buck These Odds?

Rozelle has been both praised and criticized for his harsh treatment of Karras and Hornung. The variance of thought had to be expected because of the unpredictability of human nature, which was evident in post-suspension reaction of the two players.

"I made a terrible mistake; I am truly sorry," Hornung admitted.

"I have done nothing to be ashamed of and am not guilty of anything," declared Karras, who later admitted to betting.

The guess here is that Hornung, because he took his punishment without complaint, and possibly Karras, will be back in football in a year or two.

You can't help wondering where the 27-year-old Hornung, the nice guy who came out of Notre Dame, got it wrong. His injured knee kept him out of games with Green Bay last season, but it is rumored that his insolent attitude irked Packer coach Vince Lombardi. Now owning a reputation as a playboy, Hornung was fined $500 for missing planes and being chronically late.

In 1961, when he was named the NFL's player of the year, Hornung is estimated to have made more than $100,000 from salary, endorsements and other sources. During his most profitable gambling year, according to Rozelle, Paul won $1,500.

Even a greenhorn gambler should have turned his back on those odds.

Western Final A U.S. Affair

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Canucks were eliminated Monday night and the Western Hockey League's monumental season headed toward an all-American final.

Canucks, who through the season checked Seattle Totems in and out of the Northern Division top spot and fared similarly in the best-of-seven semifinal, dropped a 3-2 decision Monday before 5,500 Vancouver fans.

One in the crowd summed up local sentiment by tossing a dead salmon on the ice.

"We'll be on the same sheet of ice as the other team," said Allen in the dressing room.

The other team will be either San Francisco or Portland, tied 3-3 in the Southern Division best-of-seven affair.

Tonight's game will be in Portland. If San Francisco wins, the final will start in that city April 26. If Portland wins it will start in Portland April 28.

Totems broke open a first-period tie to win Monday. They never looked back.

Coach Keith Allen of Totems looked philosophically toward the final—a best-of-seven series during which he won't be able to use his own ice because it's tied up with earlier bookings.

Mary Best Medal Bet; 'Peg Gets 1967 Games

Vancouver Star in Final After Decision Reversed

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP)—Canada's first solid chance for a gold medal in the Pan-American Games rests tonight on Mary Stewart of Vancouver when she leads seven Canadians into four swimming finals.

Miss Stewart, the world record-holder, bids for the championship in the 100-metre butterfly. In qualifying Sunday she tied the Games record.

All 14 Canadian entries in the eight swimming preliminaries held Sunday and Monday advanced to the finals.

The best Canadian showing to date has been fifth in both weightlifting and shooting.

But there was a measure of good news for the 134-member Canadian team Monday when Winnipeg was picked as the site of the 1967 Games over Caracas, Venezuela, and Santiago, Chile.

Canadian swimmers grabbed a share of the spotlight Monday in four preliminaries, qualifying seven men and women for the finals Thursday.

Tonight, the seven Canadians battling for a medal are Miss Stewart, 17, and Sharon Pierce of Prince Rupert, B.C., in the 100 butterfly; heat winner Dan Sherry of Hamilton, Ont., and Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., in the men's 100-metre freestyle; John Kelso of Ocean Falls in the men's 200-metre breaststroke, and Ed Cazalet of Vancouver and Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, in the men's 100-metre backstroke.

Miss Stewart almost was bounced out of the 100-metre freestyle Monday after she finished second to Kathy Ellis of the United States who equalled the Games record of 1:03.8.

JUDGES RELEST

The judges disqualified Miss Stewart claiming she had failed to touch the poolside at the 50-metre turn. But they later reversed themselves and let her clocking of 1:04.6 stand.

The best time, however, was turned in by American Terri Lee Stickle, who set a Games record of 1:03.3. She finished three yards ahead of Madeleine Sevigny of Montreal who did 1:05.9.

Don Schoellander and Carl Robie of the U.S. set Games records in winning their heats in the men's 400-metre and 200-metre butterfly respectively.

Schoellander and Gilchrist waged a duel in the final 100 metres, with the American winning by about 1 1/2 yards in 4:29.4, breaking the Games mark of 4:31.4. Gilchrist, the runnerup, almost smashed the Games standard in 4:30.5.

Robie was almost four seconds under the Games record of 2:18 flat when he won the 200 butterfly by three yards in 2:14.5.

In tennis, Canada's two-man team was eliminated in the men's singles. Harry Fauquier of Toronto bowed in the second round to El Pimentel of Venezuela 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, joining Don Fontana of Toronto on the sidelines.

PLACE FIFTH, 15TH

Clint Dahlstrom, a Calgary geologist, finished fifth in the carbine prone division shooting while Gerry Ouellette of Windsor, Ont., an Olympic gold medalist, placed 15th.

Enrico Forcella of Venezuela won the gold medal in the event with a score of 590, six points better than Dahlstrom's 584 and 16 better than Ouellette's 574.

A pair of Canadian wrestlers won their opening matches but a third Canadian lost.

Ernest Chornomydz of Montreal pinned Fenelon Lugo of Venezuela in the bantamweight class and Kurt Baese of Kitchener, Ont., outpointed Nestor Gonzalez of Argentina in the welterweight division. James Christie of Burlington, Ont., was outpointed by lightweight Julio Graffigna of Argentina.

The women's basketball tournament got under way with Brazil easily defeating Vancouver-Maids, the Canadian representatives, 98-59 and the United States outclassing Chile 72-44.

The choice of Winnipeg as the site for the next Games was made by the Pan-American Sports Organization by secret ballot and no vote was announced.

"We're very, very happy to get the Games," said Alderman Mark Danzner.

"We've been prepared since 1959 and now we'll go ahead and get the Games on the way," Danzner said. "We feel confident we will do a fine job and help cement relationships between Canada and the rest of the Americas."

The Canadian case was put so well by five speakers that three others scheduled to appear have been dropped.

The 1967 Games will be third major international competition for Canada. The British Empire Games were held at Hamilton, Ont., in 1930 and in 1954 at Vancouver. Banff, Alta., also has a strong bid in for the 1968 Winter Olympics.

LYNCH GRAND-SLAMMS

Travellin' Tom Settling Down

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

In 11 years in baseball, Tom Cheney changed uniforms 13 times.

At almost every stop he was told he had almost unlimited potential—just before they handed him his new travel orders.

Now it looks as if it will be a while before he turns in the Washington Senators' suit he is wearing.

The right-hander, who made signs of coming into his own last season when he struck out 21 Baltimore Orioles in a 16-inning game, won his second straight Monday night with a four-hitter as slick as the top of his shiny 28-year-old bald head. Los Angeles Angels were the victims, 4-1.

Only an unearned run kept Cheney from chalking up his second straight shutout. He stopped Boston on one hit in his other start.

He was ready to resume his centre field post.

Mantle has been out for nine days with a pulled chest muscle, and wasn't expected back until next week.

TIGERS DROP ANOTHER

In the only other game in the American League, Kansas City Athletics battled back to a 6-5 decision over the slumping Detroit Tigers, who have lost four of their last five.

New York Yankees made some news on the exhibition game front. Mickey Mantle appeared in the starting lineup at West Point for the annual game with the Military Academy, signaling that he may be ready to resume his centre field post.

MEANSVILLE FOR AARON

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh's 2-0 victory over Chicago Cubs, coupled with the Giants' loss, left the Pirates in first place by a few percentage points. San Francisco and St. Louis Cardinals, who defeated Houston Colts 5-2, are tied for the runner-up spot.

In the day's other game, Philadelphia Phillies ended New York Mets' winning streak at four games, 8-6.

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Punching out putts pot-pourri style . . .

In one respect, it's too bad Dr. George Bigelow and Gary Smith won't be able to have a clear field ahead of them when they tee off in next Sunday's Times Island Open semifinal. They're last off the tee, and that will be enough to prevent them from breaking all existing records for speed. Both are "runners" . . . They like to move. However, with preceding pairings holding them up, the gallery will be able to catch at least a portion of their 36-hole match. Bill Wakeham feels the turning point of his match with Art Donaldson came on the 13th. Wakeham went two up there when Arthur's drive caught the water hazard and incurred a one-stroke penalty. However, I strongly suspect the 10th did much to shake Donaldson. While Art was hitting a good drive, a nice second and two-putting for a well-deserved par, Wakeham had his troubles. He skulled his drive badly off the 10th tee, hit his second poorly and into a trap, and then exploded 12 feet past the cup. Wakeham then dropped the putt that earned him a half. . . .

Wakeham, incidentally, is working on an impressive match-play record. Only two golfers have beaten the "Rock" in the past year in match play tournaments. . . . Ron MacLeod did it in last year's Island Open final and then South Africa's Reg Taylor stopped Wakeham in the quarter-finals of the Canadian Amateur. . . . Taylor, you'll remember, went on to win the Canadian title. Wakeham's successes include a pair of victories in the PPGA's Hudson Cup event at Spokane last fall. . . . Wakeham, who battled a bout of the flu briefly last week, feels his game is "rounding into shape." Except, he says, for his putting. "On a number of occasions Sunday, I putted as if I had never seen a putter before in my life," he said.

MacLeod's victory over Mr. Brenton's Norm Roden, on the 22nd, is believed to be the longest bout in the 14-year history of the Times Open. . . . Roy Jago, a 13-handicapper at the time, carried Frank Scroggs to the 21st before bowing out in 1959, and the following year Gord Fellow defeated Watson Finley on the 20th. The 25-foot putt that gave MacLeod his victory at Uplands Sunday also gave him his first birdie of the day. His card for the first 21 holes showed 17 pars and four bogeys. . . . And, of course, they're still talking about the drive MacLeod hit on the 19th. They figure it was a 290-yard poke. He used "a soft seven" for his second shot on the 439-yard hole and the ball wound up on the back of the green. . . . Bill McColl was quite impressed with Colwood junior Gary Smith. Smith won, one up, and McColl said he played "as well as I can." Smith, who came up with an approximate 70 (even par), referred to Bill as "Mr. McColl" all the way around. . . . These are the little things that help juniors go a long way in the sport. . . . Smith finished even par despite the fact he three-putted the ninth and 14th greens. . . .

ELSEWHERE AND OTHERWISE: Gorge Vale's John Carlow, president of the provincial body for three years, has tendered his resignation as a Zone One director because of the pressure of business. . . . Bill Mattick reports Benny Fisher is the first to score a hole-in-one on Mattick's par-three course this season. . . . Victoria School Board's adult education program is moving outdoors. . . . for golfers, that is. . . . A new golf instruction course will begin shortly. "Classes" will be held at the Quadra Street driving range and will be under the direction of Al Bawlf. . . . With Bob Charles picking up first-place money in the Houston Open, southpaws everywhere are crowing loud and long this week.

Betting in Golf Commonplace

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Three big-name golfers agree it is difficult to keep gambling off the courses.
Jimmy Demaret said he bet on himself the year he won the Masters when his odds were 10 to 1.
Mike Souchak said gambling is a pro golfer's own business as long as he does not bet against himself.
Jack Burke, Jr., the 1956 Masters champion, said there is more gambling among golf fans in Houston than in any city, including Las Vegas.

"Yet golf is the riskiest of all sports to bet, because it's so unpredictable," said Burke, a Houston native who for many years has been concerned about the gambling element in golf. Only this week Burke declined another invitation to compete in the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas because he does not consider the atmosphere conducive to tournament golf.
"Sure, I've bet on myself in a golf match," Demaret said. "Haven't you?"

"I see nothing wrong in betting on myself. If I have enough confidence in my own ability, why shouldn't I bet? But if I bet against myself, I should be thrown out of golf."
"One year at the Masters I was 10 to 1, and I had my game in good shape. I knew I'd better get a few bob down on myself at these

WINS BACH PIANO CHAMPIONSHIP

Amazing Pixy Topples Talented Contenders

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON
A spry nine-year-old Chinese girl named Becky Jay amazed Monday's opening night Music Festival audience by winning the difficult Bach piano championship class against a formidable array of contenders. Becky was pitted against five other pianists, all winners in their respective grades, Monday, ranging from elementary to senior and performer categories. Adjudicator Guy Johnson, a distinguished member of the Royal Academy of Music faculty in London, England, commented on her quite exceptional degree of legato style and musicality. Other championship contenders were Norman Abbott,

Frances Crampton, Connie Pepper, Allison Marshall and Gail Wall. $25 BURSARY
The win brought the youngest member of the class the XI Nu Chapter Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Award of a $25 bursary. Mr. Johnson and Dr. Sydney Northcote collaborated in adjudicating the lieder class, in which voice and piano are equal partners.

This was the Grade B section. The open lieder class will be heard Wednesday morning. Winners were Rino Elverhoy and Gail Wall, who were awarded 82 and 86 marks respectively. One of the most interesting events in the adult vocal section, the women's operatic class, had its preliminary session Monday afternoon.

FINAL TONIGHT
As a result, out of a class of 10, with the general standard at a commendable level, Rosalie Conarroe, Pamela Paver and Margaret Christison will appear in a final competition tonight at St. Andrew's Hall.

Dr. Northcote warned the entrants against danger of distorting the emotional content of an aria taken out of its context. Singers should attempt to grasp the overall significance of the opera and the relative import of the particular aria they are singing, he advised.

Further results of Monday's classes follow:

Intermediate piano, Bach—Connie Pepper, 84; Mary Iverson, 81; Tami Burton, Kenneth Landek (equal) 80.

Piano, under 13 years—Jack Callister, 82; Andrew Wolfon, 81; Rosemary Fryer, Susan Grieve (equal) 80.

Piano, under 14 years—Jacqueline Court, 83.

Piano senior, Bach—Allison Marshall, 83; Barbara Kraeker, 82; Angus Arrol, 80.

Army Testing New Unit For Support

CAMP GAGE TOWN, N.B. (CP)—A new unit of the Canadian Army was created here today.

Its role is to test methods for more efficient and flexible support of fighting units in modern day operations. Known as the Third Brigade Service Battalion, it is commanded by Lt. Col. M. I. Walton, 40, of Calgary.

The service battalion, comprising about 1,000 officers and men, will operate here on an experimental basis for a year. It draws its manpower from existing units of the 3rd Canadian Infantry Brigade under Brig. N. G. Wilson-Smith of Winnipeg and Ottawa.

The new unit will have its first test at this 427-square mile camp in early June. Its job will be to handle all supply, repair, administrative and medical evacuation functions for the field formation.

Lt. Col. Walton is a veteran of 22 years' service. He served in the United Kingdom and Northwest Europe during the Second World War. Since the war he has held a succession of commands and staff appointments in Edmonton, Ottawa, Calgary and Winnipeg.

Suit Against Builder Dismissed

An action against Oak Bay builder Fred Allen Robinson by Arthur S. Gillow and Dr. Pauline Bergeoff-Gillow, 3295 Beach Drive, was dismissed in B.C. Supreme Court Monday by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton.

Mr. Gillow and his wife, Dr. Bergeoff-Gillow, claimed damages from Mr. Robinson on the ground that the roof of a house he sold them in 1959 was "so rotten" it had to be entirely renovated.

The amount claimed was $2,312. Mr. Justice Wootton said Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robinson had built the house for themselves and had occupied it "without any concern about the roof from the time of completion."

"That is important when endeavoring to determine the sincerity of the defendants," Mr. Justice Wootton said. "They were not aware of any defect in the roof and consequently any assurances about the roof would have been innocently made."

Mr. Justice Wootton said he rejected "any suggestion of fraud" on the part of Mr. Robinson.

J. Alan Baker, QC, appeared for the defendants, and a William R. McIntyre for the plaintiffs.

Music Critic Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Leonard Wilson, 51, well-known music critic with the Vancouver Sun, died Monday. He had been taken to hospital Friday after collapsing at his desk. Mr. Wilson joined the newspaper in 1961 after an earlier career as an organist, choir leader and music teacher.

The Bay can offer you this wonderful saving because...

- Every so often in a fine furniture manufacturer's show-rooms there is an accumulation of ends of bolts of materials. There is only enough in these ends to cover one or two sofas at the most, sometimes only enough for a chair. So the manufacturer, in this case, Braemore, clears the entire lot at a fraction of its cost in order to clear his inventory.
- The Bay has bought this entire range of beautiful fabrics from the House of Braemore. Included are imported Italian Damasks, Antique Satins, imported Italian matelasses, and imported Brocatelles, and many others. It's the widest choice you can imagine, in almost every color of the rainbow!
- You can use the actual swatches, many of them are in four-yard sample strips, to test their effect on the sofa or chair of your choice... you'll be sure and therefore satisfied with your selection.
- Scan the models here... French Provincial, Transitional, or Italian Provincial... then come in and browse around the floor... see them all!
- You'll find the finest Braemore craftsmanship in every piece, with hardwood frames dowelled, glued and mortised. Some with flat valances, some with show-wood, some to-the-floor skirts, some off-the-floor styles; most sofas and some chairs have foam rubber seat cushions.

An Edmonton engineer almost missed a one-in-a-million chance this morning.

D. R. Ellis, 37, said he had to step on the gas to catch the ferry MV Queen of Saanich at 9 a.m.

That final spurt made his car the millionth to use the

Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay service.

As a result, he and his family are "living it up" here today, courtesy of the B.C. government and the city of Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Beverly, 12; Bobby, 7, and Bruce,

2, had lunch with Mayor R. B. Wilson, went on a tour of district attractions and received souvenir gifts for all the family. A gala time at the Empress Hotel is planned tonight.

"To think we almost missed it. We had three minutes to spare," said Mr. Ellis.

He was flagged down by ferry system manager Monty Aldous after buying his ticket.

"We didn't know what we had done wrong," Mrs. Ellis added.

Their car was plastered with "millionth car" signs. They were given a cabin.

They were photographed with Mr. Aldous and with ferry captain Tom Parkinson and led past the waiting cars at this end, in solitary glory.

Mr. Ellis, who is employed by a construction firm, is making his third visit to this area.

He was planning to proceed today to Port Angeles and through the U.S. toward home, but now will enjoy a 24-hour stopover.

The millionth car honor almost fell to a car leaving Victoria aboard Queen of Victoria, at the same time. Long distance phone connection between the two terminals revealed that cars 999,996 to 999,999 boarded at Swartz Bay.

B.C. TOLL FERRY SYSTEM carried its first cars between Tsawwassen and Swartz Bay, June 15, 1960. Today the millionth car rolled ashore at

Swartz Bay. Occupants from left are Bruce Ellis, two, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Ellis, Beverly, 12, and Bobby, 7, of Edmonton, on annual holiday.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, APRIL 23, 1963—PAGE 11

Arthur Mayse

Victoria's police surgeon, a peppery, opinionated, outspoken medico by the name of E. Lloyd McNiven, has acquired a considerable file of ghosts during his 33 years on the job.

The one that haunts him most frequently belongs to a child disembowelled by a blunt instrument weighing about a ton and a half, and tossed to die in a suburban intersection.

What bothers him worse, though, is a bitter conviction that public and police regard it as a graver crime to cash a $25 bouncing cheque, than to kill a person in traffic.

On the subject of mayhem by automobile in the hands of a drinking driver, Dr. McNiven is especially vitriolic. He feels that Canadian law pussyfoots around this problem, and blames just about everyone in sight.

The thing we have to do, he insists, is toughen ourselves to the point where we can accept the theory that if we transgress while drinking, we must bear the consequences. The corollary, as Dr. McNiven sees it, is that we have to set up machinery which will make conviction less a matter of chance than he finds it today.

What he wants to see, our police surgeon told me—chopping into the fruit salad lunch required by the diet that has trimmed him from 200 pounds plus to a mere 160—is two further amendments to the Criminal Code of Canada.

One would provide standard legal definitions of impairment and drunkenness. ("A definition is absent. Anyway, impairment is neither fish nor fowl. To a medical man, it's a lousy word: where is the cutoff point between impairment and drunkenness?")

The second change urged by Dr. McNiven would make blood testing compulsory for the driver or drivers involved in a traffic accident in which an experienced enforcement officer suspected liquor had played a part.

("Statistics without a blood test don't mean a thing. Having established the alcohol levels, that would allow an exact definition, you need the legal ability to test a driver for alcohol content in his bloodstream as soon after he's picked up as possible.")

At this point, I wondered aloud whether Dr. McNiven mightn't be crediting liquor with too big a part in traffic accidents. There was also mechanical failure, weather hazard, drivers' physical defects, and the plain bone-headedness of which we're all on occasion guilty.

For that suggestion, the police surgeon had a blunt answer. In nine out of 10 serious accidents he's attended, one or both drivers involved had been drinking.

"Not necessarily blotto," he said, "but happy enough to take chances."

Dr. McNiven's diet doesn't extend to dessert. Over black coffee, he went on to tell me why, even though the subject may be willing, he doesn't run blood tests on suspected drinking drivers.

"Pointless," he said. "No Canadian court will accept the results of a blood test as evidence."

"Another thing: it's too risky, even though under Section 224 of the Criminal Code, I'm allowed to take a blood test with the consent of the accused. As the law stands, there's no provision to protect the blood-taker. The subject can whip round, claim he was in no condition to give consent, and charge me with assault."

I'd heard that a number of European countries, Sweden and Finland among them, are less lenient toward the drinking driver than Canada appears to be.

For the first time during our session, Dr. McNiven looked truly happy. "That's so," he confirmed. "In Sweden, the blood test is mandatory. The driver with as little as a .05 count—that's 50 milligrams of alcohol to 100 cc. of blood—is in serious trouble, and likely to go to jail."

Since a two-ounce drink can bring a prison sentence, partying Swedes have learned not to mix aquavit with their gasoline.

We can cut our traffic death-rate too, Dr. McNiven suggests. But he doesn't think we will until we give our highway law some sharp new teeth. Sharp enough to make the cost of drunk driving so high that it's no longer worth the risk.

MAY DAY QUEEN in Belmont Park is Darlene Moyes, 15, of 207 Ganges Crescent, shown at top. Below is Carol Kitchen, 14, of 245 Belmont Road, and Joanne Provencal, 13, of 455 Forward Drive, her two princesses. All three are students at John Stubbs School. The students in grades 6, 7, 8 and 9 selected the queen and princesses in a ballot.

Show Birds Destroyed In Farm Fire

Over 150 chickens perished in a fire which destroyed a West Saanich brooder house this morning.

But Saanich fire department managed to prevent the blaze spreading to other buildings housing ducks, pheasants, quail, canaries and other birds.

Among the birds lost was a pen of prize-winning white Leghorns which owner Adrian Gilmore, 4936 Old West-Saanich Road, was preparing to show at the Pacific National Exhibition and other fairs this summer.

Mr. Gilmore, former general secretary of the Community Chest here, and now a welfare officer with the provincial government, estimated about $300 worth of birds were burned to death.

He valued the brooder house, which was destroyed in the fire, at about $500 including equipment and eggs.

He said the blaze started at about 11:45 a.m. from an overheated oil heater in the brooder.

"I checked the brooder before leaving for work this morning," he told the Times, "and my wife checked it only 10 minutes before she discovered the fire."

The floor of the house was covered with dry peat moss, and the whole building went very quickly," he said.

$2,375 Award By McMaster To City Student

A Victoria College student has been granted a $2,375 fellowship to attend one of Canada's top graduate schools in the field of psychology.

Tom Wyatt, of 3374 Connorton Lane, 22, who graduates from the college this spring, will go to McMaster University in Ontario this fall to begin work on his Master of Arts degree, and to work as a graduate assistant in the psychology department there.

His tuition fees are paid for him, and the $2,375 award includes $1,000 for a research project of his own.

Mr. Wyatt has been accepted on a one-year master's program in recognition of academic distinction—it usually takes two.

He hopes to obtain his master's degree in experimental psychology, and then go on to take his Ph.D. degree in clinical or social psychology.

New Power Lines To Boost Supply On Gulf Islands

British Columbia Hydro will provide new undersea and overland power lines this summer to step up power supply to four Gulf Islands.

Vancouver Island region manager Larry Wright announced today that 600 customers and a major industrial user on Saturna, Galiano, Salt Spring and Mayne Islands, will benefit from the $450,000 program.

He said the Vancouver Island transmission system will be tapped at Crofton. A second, three-mile 25,000-volt underwater cable will be linked with Salt Spring.

Additional 25 miles of overhead line and six miles of island-linking undersea cable, will enable the Hydro to boost power conducted from 12,000 to 25,000 volts.

Mr. Wright said a basic crew of 12 men is on the job already and will be augmented as the work develops.

VARIED FARE TONIGHT AT FESTIVAL

A varied session for Music Festival followers is in the offing tonight.

The program will take place at St. Andrew's Kirk Hall auditorium and starting time is 7:30.

Highlights will include the women's operatic final, expected to be a closely contested event, and the Piano Sonata championship play-off.

The family ensemble—for any combination of voices and/or instruments—also will take place.

A class for under 12-year-old choir groups will open the program.

Speech choirs were in session this morning at Oak Bay Junior High School. Wednesday all day will see speech arts in progress at Woodsworth Hall while piano and vocal sessions will continue at Cridge and St. Andrew's halls.

Senior and performer piano classes and major adult vocal solo classes will occupy the afternoon.

Oak Bay Won't Buy Radar Unit

Oak Bay police budget of $136,121 has been tentatively approved by estimates committee following a cut of $2,115 earmarked for a traffic control radar set-recorder.

Committee lopped the items during a session in which a review of a superannuation figure and salary adjustments were recommended.

BREATH ANALYZER
New equipment authorized by the committee includes a breath analyzer device for use in sobriety testing—first one approved for a Greater Victoria police force.

Other items sanctioned include a high gain antenna for police radios, a revolver and a polaroid camera, which with the breath analyzer have a total value of $1,425.

Pre-budget review continues with another meeting next week.

OTTAWA STIRS CITY PURRS

Victoria's long-awaited 1962 grant from the federal government finally arrived Monday.

The cheque, in lieu of taxes, gives City Hall $180,300 and a sense of relief to the accounting department.

"It's four months late but we finally have it," said comptroller-treasurer James Bramley who has been struggling to figure out the city's 1963 revenue budget with the rather sizeable loose end dangling.

Estate of $60,369 Left By Retired Brewmaster

Adolf Brachet, brewmaster at the Silver Springs Brewery in Victoria for more than 43 years, left estate to the gross value of $60,369, it was revealed in his will probated at Victoria Courthouse Monday.

Mr. Brachet was 88 when he died on March 5. He lived at 324 Maitland Street.

Row-Home Plan Given Approval

Construction of a $500,000 "row-house" development has been approved in principle by Saanich council. The four-acre site is bounded by Wetherby Road, Shelley Street, McRae Avenue and the city-Saanich boundary four blocks west of Shelbourne Street.

The development, sometimes called town-house, patio-house or court-dwelling, has the Saanich town planning department's approval.

Town planner Tony Parr has been instructed to draw up suitable regulations for controlling this type of housing accommodation which is being introduced for the first time into the Greater Victoria area.

F. G. Rainsford, a forestry engineer, is the promoter of the project.

MORE ACCEPTABLE

Council, which has run into strong opposition over construction of high-rise and garden apartments, hopes this type of accommodation will be more acceptable.

Ratepayer opposition has resulted in council rejecting three applications for high-rise apartments in the past three months.

Five applications for conventional apartments also have been rejected. "Saanich is now faced with the decision to permit or reject this new kind of housing unit," said Mr. Parr. "In large cities or metropolitan areas, this type of development is gaining in popularity."

ENCLOSED GARDEN
He described row housing as L-shaped dwellings attached to one another. Each dwelling has an individual enclosed patio-garden and garage. The row-house also has a common green.

"I have seen this type of dwelling in England," said Mr. Parr. "They can be most attractive and are desirable living accommodations."

He said good row-housing design creates usable open space in contrast to the useless narrow sideyards, and exposed front and backyards that are typical of single family subdivisions.

FILLS VACUUM
"Row-housing also fills an apparent vacuum in the housing market, being particularly attractive to married couples under 25 or over 55 years of age," he said. "Garden maintenance is not as expensive."

Mr. Parr felt that the proposed site is suitable for such development, providing care is taken in designing and siting the buildings.

He had obtained nearly $3,000 worth of jewelry, cameras, clothing and luggage from downtown merchants.

Charles Bird received the 18-month sentence on each of 16 counts of false pretences, the terms to run concurrently.

The articles were obtained by the accused using a navy identification card, and the cheques were drawn on a fictitious account at the Douglas and Cormorant Street branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Most of the items were sold in beer parlors in Vancouver and will not be recovered, the court was told earlier.

"The country is only the private citizen, after all, and it would be a very poor country indeed which had to depend on a citizen like you," the magistrate said.

"You are a deserter from the navy," he said referring to the report, "and yet you have the shameless audacity to say the country has done nothing for you."

"The country is only the private citizen, after all, and it would be a very poor country indeed which had to depend on a citizen like you," the magistrate said.

Q. In bowling, how does the popularity of tenpins compare to fivepins? D. P.

A. Although tenpins has many thousands of enthusiastic players in Canada, its popularity does not approach that of the native game of fivepins. There are about 1,000,000 fivepin bowlers in Canada which is the reason bowling is said to be the most popular participation sport in the nation.

'No Concrete Ideas' From City-CPR Talks

Mayor R. B. Wilson this morning reported "still no concrete ideas" have emerged from dragging negotiations with the Canadian Pacific Railway over the future of the Empress Hotel's front lawn.

Last February, city council began processing a bylaw to prevent new construction within 100 feet of Government or Belleville in the Inner Harbor precinct.

This was tabled at the CPR's request so that discussions could be held regarding the Empress' lawn and several meetings have been held between Mayor Wilson and a CPR official.

But the latest meeting this morning showed "we are still searching for ideas," said the mayor.

Navy Deserter Jailed After Cheque Spree

A navy deserter was sentenced in city police court today to 18 months definite and six months indeterminate thereafter in the Young Offenders' Unit for a spree of passing bad cheques here March 29 and 30.

He had obtained nearly $3,000 worth of jewelry, cameras, clothing and luggage from downtown merchants.

Charles Bird received the 18-month sentence on each of 16 counts of false pretences, the terms to run concurrently.

'Buddy' System Automated In U.S. Army

WASHINGTON — The old army "buddy" system has become automated.

In a matter of seconds, thanks to a new machine, your fellows' estimates of your capabilities (or lack of capabilities, as the case may be) can be measured and recorded.

When the computer has cooled, your commanding officer has decided whether to recommend you for that next stripe or tear off the one you're wearing.

The instrument, called a "peer-rating machine," was developed for the U.S. Army's Personnel Research office by a bureau of standards team headed by James P. Nigro. It was eight months in the making.

According to the commerce department, the machine "collects ratings made of each member of a group by his fellow members, and computes the average rating for each individual."

NOTHING NEW

Nigro explained that the buddy-rating process—used to burn up hours of soldiers' time, buddy-rating, however, is nothing new, Nigro says.

He said the system began at West Point more than 20 years ago, when cadets rated their classmates as to leadership, ambition, and so forth. The boys best rated by their classmates then, he said, came out as top officers in 60 per cent of the cases.

The machine works by asking a soldier a question, say, as to which of his fellows is the best leader, which is the second best, and so on up to 20. The soldier then slips plugs into a board, one for each buddy, as to which is best, second best and so forth. The soldier, when rating his fellows, cannot vote for himself.

PET POINTS

By Dr. J. R. Ems

Do Cats and Dogs Enjoy Music?

Yes. Many kennels and animal hospitals used piped-in music to make their animals feel at home.

CLINIC: Q—Major, our 18-year-old Boxer, never was a heavy drinker but here of late he's been lapping up all the water he can find. Is this normal or a sign of trouble?

W.W. McM., Cicero, Ill.
A—Excessive water drinking and old age go hand in hand. It's likely that Major's kidneys are affected and he's drinking more to help his system eliminate waste. This is fairly common among older dogs. Consult your veterinarian for proper treatment and diet, and more important, to make certain that Major's thirst is a minor kidney problem and not symptomatic of something more serious.

CLINIC: Q—We're going to have our house painted and a neighbor says we'd be wise to get Scarmouche, our 4-year-old Scottie, out of the house. Is there any necessity for this?

A—It's a wise precaution. Dogs are highly inquisitive and they're also sensitive to the lead in paint. Some dogs may show allergic responses to paint. Others have been known to get deadly doses just by inhaling paint fumes from a can. Don't mix your dog and paint. Board Scarmouche elsewhere until the job is done.

'He Did It For Me' Says Wife

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—The wife of one of the three ringleaders in the week-end riot at the British Columbia Penitentiary says her husband "did it for me."

"Bernie and I often talked about maybe getting him a transfer to Stoney Mountain so I could be with my family," said Mrs. Diane Wood, 24, in an interview Sunday.

"I was planning to see what could be done about it. But my God, I didn't want him to do it this way." Nelson Bernard Wood, 27, was one of three convicts who held a penitentiary guard at knifepoint for 13½ hours, finally winning their demands for transfers to other penitentiaries.

Wood has served the first year of an eight-year sentence for armed robbery. He was married four months before his arrest in 1961 and his son Bernie Jr., now six months old, was born while Wood was behind bars.

"I'll wait for Bernie and I'll do everything in my power to help him to go straight when he gets out," Mrs. Wood said.

"I know he wants to because he loves me and Bernie Jr.," she said she probably will leave for her family home at Selkirk, Man., about 20 miles northeast of Winnipeg, at the end of the month.

"I don't know where I'll get the money, but I think my welfare officer might help me out." Her only income has been the welfare cheque, and she said most of it is spent on food.

"It will be much better for all of us back home."

Animals Honored

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By R. L. Wilson

NEW YORK—Milton Berle and I had a bitter feud once... because on a certain morning, he phoned and yelled four and even five-letter aspersions at me and also at my illustrious ancestry.

I sought him out at a Broadway screening, to avenge the insult.

"Milton," I said in a conciliatory tone.

"XXXX!" he replied. For about a year, passing each other, we would stare through each other. I was sad, because I'd always admired him. Suddenly, there was a birthday party for me, and as though nothing had happened, he turned up as M.C. Several comedians were there—but only he had worked on "material."

The Friars recently saluted him for his 50 years in show business (he'll be 55 in July)—but do those clowns really appreciate him? Wouldn't it have been better if an historian, say, had spoken?

Do they remember that "Mr. Television" made TV, sold millions of sets?

"I know it's true—I sold mine, my brother sold his," Joe E. Lewis said on more than one occasion.

No. 1 "Public Enemy No. 1," as they called him, had a Hooper rating of 80 back in 1949—on May 12, that year—which is about 14 years ago—his picture was on the cover of both Time and Newsweek... an honor accorded up to that time only to Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Ham that he is, thank goodness, I found out that he's a secret philanthropist—he's staked singer Lillian Roth when she appeared to be a hopeless risk. Bob Cummings told me that he hadn't seen Berle in years, yet one day there was a call...

"Listen, I hear you're in a contract hassle. Now, anything you need... hundreds of thousands..."

Millionaire since he was a young man, he needn't work, but he'll be at Brooklyn Town & Country starting Friday.

KIDS HIMSELF
Milton's always been able to kid himself. About his old nose. His gag-stealing. When the late drama critic Willela Waldorf rapped his serious dramatic effort in "I'll Hit the High Road" in 1943, Milton said:

"All I have to say about Miss Waldorf is that I'll never eat any more of her salads."

Yes, it's good to have him back here. How can anybody explain him? Irving Mansfield did it with a story of once seeing Milton to be a guest on his "This Is Show Business" TV panel.

"Can you pay me my regular price—$15,000?" Berle said.

"No"—"Can you pay $10,000?"—"No"—"$5,000?"—"No"—"No"—"$500?"—"No"—"$100?"—"No"

"Can you get two passes to the program for my mother?"—"Yes"—"O.K. YOU'VE GOT A DEAL!"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A Detroit mar (reports Mitch Woodbury) serves a Cleopatra cocktail. Trouble is, it takes two years to finish it.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Mike Connolly insists he can't understand why he has to pay an amusement tax to watch the Mets play.

That's earl, brother.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books of other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Patricia Murphy, age 11, of Staten Island, N.Y., for her question:

What is the carnauba tree?

We have intelligence to help us cope with the hardships of nature. We can build houses to keep out the cold, and we can work to provide ourselves with food. The plant world must take the hardships of nature as they come. The carnauba just happens to be able to thrive where the conditions are too severe for other sizable trees.

Its botanical name is Copernicia cerifera, but the Brazilians call it carnauba, the wax palm. Most plants produce a certain amount of wax to shield their leaves from the drying air. Some produce enough to make it worth our while to gather this plant wax. But no plant can produce wax to compare with that of the carnauba, either in quantity or in quality.

Early naturalists called the carnauba the Tree of Life, because it can grow in a climate where other trees find life impossible. Its native home is northern Brazil, where the fierce winds blow too hot and dry for comfort. There is little, or no moisture in the air and little enough on the rocky ground. The carnauba lives alone in this region of bleak soil swept by hot and arid winds.

It is a tall and kingly palm with a crown of huge fan-shaped leaves. It produces a coating of wax to protect its large leaves from the unfriendly winds. The coating of wax is always heavy. But the wax shield is thickest when the season is hottest and when the lashing winds blow hardest. And the quality of the carnauba wax surpasses that of any other plant.

You have only to count the waxed surfaces in your home to see that wax plays a big part in modern living. Wax is also used in the manufacture of such widely different items as phonograph records and carbon paper, matches and blackboard chalk. Many of these industrial waxes are made by the plant world, and the best plant wax comes from the carnauba palm.

Wax Tree Hard to Cultivate

Brazilians are trying to cultivate the slow-growing palm in plantations. But wild trees still provide most of the world's carnauba wax. Two cuttings are made during the dry season, and the law allows only 10 to 20 leaves to be taken from each tree. The huge glossy leaves are shredded and mixed with less perfect waxes to improve them, for it makes them harder and less likely to melt. It is present in most of our self-polishing floor waxes. When mixed with the right ingredients, carnauba wax dries fast and hardens with its own glossy lustre.

Atlas to Thomas Hollowell, age eight, of Schweinfurt, Germany, for his question:

Does an alligator lay many eggs?

Mrs. Alligator lays her snow white eggs in a huge nest. This nest is a huge pile of grasses and damp foliage. It may be three feet high and more than six feet wide. When all is ready, she lays her clutch of eggs deep inside this heap of warm, rotting vegetation. As a rule, she lays about 50 eggs.

Most of the snakes, lizards and other reptiles desert their eggs and leave them to hatch in the warm ground. But Mrs. Alligator is a better mother than most of her reptile relatives. She stands guard over their nest and keeps enemies away from her precious eggs. She stays nearby until the eggs hatch and her 50 or so youngsters leave the nest.

There are about 13 active volcanoes in Russia's Kamchatka Peninsula, between the Bering Sea and the Sea of Okhotsk.

He was alleged to have been in possession of six stolen coupons but during the four-day trial Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes directed the jury to acquit Wilson on one charge involving five $25 coupons.

Found Guilty In Bond Case
VANCOUVER (CP)—David Wilson, 32, laborer, was found guilty Monday of possession of a coupon from bonds valued at $423,000 stolen from Premier Trust Co., St. Catharines, Ont., in 1959.

The Man Who Is to Marry Princess Alexandra

Angus Ogilvy, second son of the 12th Earl of Airlie and the Countess of Airlie, who was Lady Alexandra Marie Bridget Coke, daughter of the third Earl of Leicester. He has two brothers and three sisters, and they have always been referred to as "a tremendously happy family."

On Wednesday Princess Alexandra of Kent will marry the Hon. Angus Ogilvy in Westminster Abbey, London.

The Princess, a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II and 12th in line of succession to the Throne, is well known not only in Britain but throughout the world for, since she was a small child, newspapers and magazines have recorded her life.

But what sort of a person is Angus James Bruce Ogilvy? Until the announcement of the engagement, few of the general public had ever heard of him.

He is 34 (he was born on September 14, 1928), eight years older than the Princess whose birthday is on Christmas Day.

A square-jawed, broad-shouldered figure, blue-eyed and tanned complexioned, he is taller than the Princess.

Much of Mr. Ogilvy's background (his name Angus in Gaelic means, appropriately, "unique choice"), is similar to that of the Princess. They were both brought up in the country.

The Princess grew up at Coptham, the family home at Iwer, Buckinghamshire, of the Kenes. Mr. Ogilvy grew up at his parents' Scottish home in Kilmillar, Angus, Scotland.

Both Princess Alexandra and her future husband love the outdoor life—horse-riding, sailing, long walks and tramping the moors.

Unlike his future brother-in-law, the Duke of Kent, he has no interest in fast cars except to regard them as a means of transport. He drives a green Jaguar.

He shares the Princess' love of reading and music and both are regular attenders at London concerts.

Mr. Ogilvy was educated at Heatherdown, near Ascot, and at Eton. He did his national service in the Scots Guards, in which he was commissioned, and is now on the reserve of officers. He is also a member of the Royal Company of Archers, the Queen's Body Guard for Scotland. In 1948 he went up to Trinity College, at the University of Oxford, where he read Modern Greats—philosophy, politics and economics.

He has known Princess Alexandra for some eight years, and has been her escort to balls and on other occasions since she finished her education and began to take part in social functions.

The Airlie family have always had close associations of services and friendship with the Royal Family. Mr. Ogilvy's father was a Lord-in-Waiting to King George V during the 1920s, and is now Lord Chamberlain to Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother. His grandmother Mabel, Countess of Airlie, was Lady of the Bedchamber and a close friend of Queen Mary for many years.

Mr. Ogilvy spends his working day as "something in the city," working in London with the Harold Drayton group of investment trusts. He joined the group in 1953, became a director in 1956, and represents it, as chairman, managing director or director, on the boards of a number of associated companies.

He gets to his office in Old Broad Street between 9:30 and 10 every morning—"it depends on how he is fixed with appointments," explains his secretary. He favors the British city man's "uniform" in dress—sober double-breasted pin-stripe suit, discreet blue tie-but not a black bowler hat! He is known as "a glutton for work," often sitting in on seven meetings in a day, dealing with everything from tin-tin to television, during which time he smokes occasionally.

HIS BUSY DAY

Often he will snatch a hurried lunch, before touring building sites checking on designs (he's a confirmed "anti-ugly" and likes to make sure what is going on), or travelling up to the Midlands for a conference. Often he works late in his oak paneled office, where in a leather frame in the centre of his desk is a smiling, informal picture of Princess Alexandra, wearing a headscarf.

At the end of the day he goes back to his Georgian-type house in London's Mayfair, where he is looked after by a manservant. In spite of his busy life he still finds time to spare for a number of charitable organizations, among them the Friends of the Poor and Gentlemen's Help, of which he is deputy chairman, the British Rheumatic and Arthritis Association, and the National Association of Youth Clubs.

'A REAL MAN'

To his friends, relations and business associates, Mr. Ogilvy has always been "someone worth knowing—a real man."

From a close friend and co-director on Gramplan Television comes the tribute: "Mr. Ogilvy is a very able businessman and a real charmer."

When he became engaged, a member of his family said: "Angus is the last to be married; we are so pleased. He is always so straightforward, kind and friendly, with a sound attitude to things."

And from the Airlie family nurse, Mrs. Margaret Mackay came the comment: "He deserves the best. He is, and always was, the perfect gentleman."

Fun and informality marked a reception held by Empress Hotel management in the lower lounge, Monday evening, for golfers entered in the 33rd annual Empress tournament being played this week. Reception was followed by a sit-down dinner and dance in the Crystal Ballroom. Among those attending both events were Canadians John O'Connor and Mrs. O'Connor, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robertson. In last year's tournament Mr. O'Connor won the medal in the qualifying round by beating Mr. Robertson in a close match. This year the two friends reversed the score with Mr. Robertson named medalist after a close game with Mr. O'Connor. (Ryan Bros. Photo.)

Royal Ball Ends at Dawn

WINDSOR, England (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip capped Britain's most glittering and expensive royal ball of the century early today with a fast-moving dance and breakfast of bacon and eggs.

The ball was attended by a host of diamond-studded royalty and nobility in Windsor Castle honoring Princess Alexandra of Kent and Scottish commoner Angus Ogilvy, who will be married in Westminster Abbey tomorrow.

Informal sources said the queen danced a free-flowing twist which drew approval from the guests.

Then she and her husband, Prince Philip, led late-staying guests in a breakfast of bacon and eggs served on Royal Windsor gold plates.

It was dawn before the last of the 2,000 British and European guests went home.

"There has never, we believe, been a night like this in the castle's history," a member of the royal household said.

The queen, who had spent $36,000 decorating the 1,000-year-old castle and ordering food and drink, started the ball in dramatic fashion.

A royal page in state livery opened the door to the great Waterloo chamber, revealing the Queen, Prince Philip, Alexandra and Ogilvy framed in the chamber archway.

Alexandra and Ogilvy to lead the ball.

The young couple, who will be wed in Westminster Abbey tomorrow, danced alone in the great chamber for a few moments before being joined by Elizabeth and Philip and their guests.

By midnight the queen, dressed in white lace with a plentiful assortment of jewels, was doing the twist with Philip.

Driver Education Needed in B.C.

Insurance companies donate thousands of dollars to a program of teaching teachers how to teach students how to drive but British Columbia cannot use its proper share of these funds because of lack of official approval of driver education as a part of the curriculum.

This was stated by Ken F. V. Malthouse at the meeting of the Consumers Association of Canada, Victoria Branch, Monday afternoon in the Public Library Music Room.

"The Chant report on education, in effect," he said, "classifies driver training as one of those 'unnecessary frills' in secondary education."

In pointing out the value of driver education, Mr. Malthouse said, "No less than 75 per cent of these 'graduates' have absolutely clean records. They are good, sane drivers with no accidents and no convictions after five years driving. Their accident involvement is only one-fifth of the national average."

"Teaching of good driving and of healthy driving attitudes is no job for amateurs," he said. "The average parent can't do it—this is usually a case of the blind leading the blind."

Mr. Malthouse, who is British Columbia representative of All Canada Insurance Federation and director of B.C. Traffic Victims Indemnity Fund, explained how and why the TVIF operated and who paid for it.

The fund is set up to help solve the financial problems of innocent accident victims and is paid for by the insurance companies at an annual cost of 58 cents per licensed driver in B.C.

He does not believe compulsory car insurance is advisable as this would mean an increase in taxes and government administration costs as well as higher insurance rates.

Traffic safety, law enforcement, accident prevention, driver education and accident indemnity are important but most important is driver education.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. W. E. Rolls and thanked by Mrs. B. Dysart.

Mrs. P. R. A. Coombs presided. The meeting agreed to send $150 to National CAC as a contribution toward starting consumer testing in Canada.

Reporting on consumer problems Mrs. E. Mills said that the increase in the price of apple juice had been investigated and consumers were informed that opalescent apple juice as compared to the clear juice did not go up in price and was just as good.

Darning Days Are Gone With Five-Year Guarantee

By PENNY SAVER

Among the lost arts is that of darning. And to make sure it is never revived one manufacturer has just put socks on the market that are guaranteed for five years. If a hole appears within that time the socks are replaced. If it appears after that time I think even the most frugal of housewives would feel free to throw the sock out.

These socks, made of antron, a new miracle yarn, sell at $1.50 a pair or three pairs for $3.98.

There certainly is a lot to be said for not having to darn holes in your socks, but I must warn you there is a sort of penalty to pay for this luxury.

The modern synthetic yarns, from which the hosiery I've been talking about is knit, can present perspiration problems. And lack of absorbency or "breathing" in these materials tend to accompany odors and discomforts.

Not only is hosiery made of this new synthetic material but the same synthetics are sometimes used in shoe lining and in particular in children's shoes.

To help combat this problem there is a new shoe spray and also a new foot spray on the market which has been found to be very effective. The shoe spray makes linings self-sterilizing, and inhibits growth of bacteria and fungi which contribute to shoe odor and to the deterioration of the shoe. Used weekly, shoes will remain fresh and last longer. Price is $1.25.

The foot spray sells for $1.50 and comes in a similar handy and easy-to-use container. It cools and refreshes scalding or burning feet, as well as kills foot odor caused by bacteria or fungi associated with athlete's foot.

If you have a hot foot phone Penny at 382-3131.

The former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia and her husband, Rainier III, "reigned" over the event sponsored by the Philadelphia fashion group from a royal box at the head of the Philadelphia Art Museum's grand stairway.

Grace's hair was coiffed in towering Empire style. She wore a stunning blue organza gown with a diagonal hem ruffle by Balenciaga. At her throat, bosom and wrists glinted a queen's ransom of diamonds and rubies.

"Never, never change! Keep that breathless charm!" was Eddie Fisher's tribute to her in song.

The gala started with a champagne reception which overflowed the museum's

Driver Died Accidentally Inquest Rules

DUNCAN — A coroner's jury Monday returned with a verdict of accidental death in the case of David Frederick Martin, 17, who died almost instantly when the car he was driving crashed into the rear of a lumber truck.

The accident occurred early Saturday morning at the intersection of the Trans-Canada Highway and Herd Road.

The inquest was conducted by Dr. J. S. Goodbrand, coroner.

The meeting will be held at the Tzouhalem Hotel at 6 p.m.

COBBLE HILL — Michael Hamilton of Parksville, president of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, says Vancouver Island has not received a just share of its own revenues for years.

Mr. Hamilton, former mayor of Port Alberni, told the South Cowichan Taxpayers' Association that he does not agree with campaigns 25 years ago to declare Vancouver Island a separate province.

But he said he does want "a better deal for Vancouver Island."

He said the Island wants lower rates on government ferries, a reduction in domestic electricity rates and more highways.

CEDAR — A fire Monday night gutted the log home of Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Wilkinson of Yellow Point Road.

The Wilkinsons returned from a trip to Europe last week.

Michael Wilkinson, 14, and a baby girl, escaped injury.

SOOKE — A referendum asking the B.C. government to establish Sooke as a "community planning area" was defeated here Monday.

The count on the referendum showed 150 votes for a planning area and 238 against it.

The defeat means that Sooke can continue with the minimum building and zoning restrictions.

The referendum was initiated by the Sooke Chamber of Commerce.

Plush Seat Plan For Show-Goers

Victorians will have a personal chance to help pretty up the civic theatre and also have their names put on the seats. Centennial Square committee Monday approved a recommendation to open a "seat endowment fund" to the public.

By sending in $10 to the city comptroller-treasurer, any Victorians can help put an extra quality plush covering on one of the 999 seats in the civic theatre.

In return, the committee will see that the donor's name on a small brass plate is fixed to the seat.

The idea came from a citizens' advisory sub-committee helping plan renovation of the civic theatre which reported that $80 already had been donated for the purpose.

ADD $9,000: City planner Rod Clark said full subscription to the fund would amount more than $9,000 to the capital fund.

He said normal funds would be used for refurbishing the existing seats to a standard level but the citizen donations would be used to add a frill—extra high quality materials for re-covering.

"This is most encouraging," said Mayor R. B. Wilson.

"It shows the community is behind the civic theatre project."

In other business, the committee decided to call for tenders for demolition of the Taylor Tire and Bridgewood service stations in the precinct area.

They would be torn down next month, followed by the rest of the buildings when leases expire June 30.

The $90,000 land assembly cost paid by the city will be added to the $195,000 senior citizen recreation building estimate for three-way sharing by the city, senior citizens and provincial government.

Committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toome was instructed to meet with recreation committee chairman Ald. Cecil Parrott to discuss possible methods of administering the recreation centre. This could lead to formation of an overall recreation commission for all city recreational facilities.

ADVISERS

Silver Threads officials were appointed as advisers to the architect designing the senior citizens recreation centre.

Welfare administrator W. H. Hooson was authorized to arrange a meeting of all senior citizens' organizations to discuss a public canvass for their one-third share of the cost.

Eskimo Sentenced To Life Term For Slaying Boy

FROBISHER BAY, NWT (CP)—Mingeriak, 45, an Eskimo, was sentenced to life imprisonment Monday after pleading guilty in territorial court to a charge of non-capital murder.

The sentence, mandatory for the charge, was passed by Mr. Justice J. H. Sissons of Yellowknife.

Mingeriak was originally charged with capital murder in the Feb. 6 jackknife slaying of six-year-old Salamonie in a house in an Eskimo section of the community.

The charge was reduced after a Crown-appointed defence counsel, Arthur Maloney of Toronto, told the court Mingeriak wanted to plead guilty to non-capital murder.

Evidence in court was Mingeriak had gone to the house after drinking at a hotel. He made advances to the boy's pregnant mother, but was refused and stabbed her... 20 times. He then turned on the boy.

drive miles and years at the lowest cost

The Rambler American Six is the lowest-priced Canadian-built car, with features you won't find even on higher priced cars. That's where its real value lies. Because these features keep your operating costs down to an absolute minimum. There's Deep-Dip rustproofing for example. This process makes the Rambler American the world's most completely rustproofed car. Then there are the three guarantees. The Ceramic-Armoured muffler and tail-pipe are guaranteed for as long as you own the car. And the battery and coolant are unconditionally guaranteed for two years or 24,000 miles. Another major feature is simply the way the car is built. With Rambler pioneered Single-Unit construction, the car is stronger, lasts longer. There's our policy, too,

High-Rise Foes Win Out In Saanich Vote

The "Battle of the high-rise apartment" in the Cadboro Bay area is over.

The bylaw to rezone a site on Haro Road to allow construction of a high-rise apartment was defeated at a Saanich council meeting Monday night.

The vote was 5 to 3 in favor of the bylaw—just one vote short to ensure its passage.

Voting in favor of rezoning the site overlooking the Bay area, were Councillors Joseph Casey, Leslie Passmore, Gregory Cook and Robert Ostler. Reeve Stanley Murphy and Councillors Harold Todd and Hugh Curtis opposed it.

BIG VICTORY

The bylaw's defeat represented a major victory for the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association representing more than 1,000 home-owners opposed to the construction of a high-rise apartment in the Bay and surrounding district. It also brought to an end for the present a long and bitter dispute over changes in land use in an area strictly zoned for single family dwellings.

The failure of the bylaw came as a surprise as councillors favoring the high-rise project were expected to carry the day.

But Coun. Hugh Curtis, who indicated at a public hearing last month he would support the zoning bylaw, sided with the reeve and Coun. Todd.

Mr. Curtis said he felt that the town planning department should take "another look" at proposed land uses for the entire area surrounding the Victoria College Gordon Head campus.

"I feel this should be done before council makes any decision on changing land uses," he said.

He noted the planning department had prepared a community plan for the Gordon Head and surrounding districts when there was no question of a college campus in the area.

OUTDATED

This plan is now out of date because of the college campus development, he said.

"In view of this I feel that this whole matter should go back to the lands and planning committee," he added.

Councillors who favored the high-rise project were bitter about the bylaw's defeat.

Coun. Casey implied that ratepayers in the Cadboro Bay area had "intimidated" some members of council.

"I believe in democracy but not mob rule," he said.

Cadboro Bay ratepayers standing in the council chambers murmured their disapproval.

Mr. Casey predicted there would be an increase of illegal suites in the Cadboro Bay area as the result of council's decision.

"If these people are against apartments why don't they put an end to the operation of illegal suites in the district," he said.

Coun. Passmore said he favored rezoning the land for apartment use because the town planner had recommended the site for such a building.

"I don't always agree with the planner," he said, "but in this case I do."

Coun. Ostler said since the bylaw was defeated he would propose at a lands and planning committee meeting that council adopt part or all of the community plan for the district.

Adoption of the community plan would make it difficult to make any changes in zoning, he said.

B.C. Alberta Delegates Divided on Highway Route

EDMONTON (CP)—A meeting between government officials and chamber of commerce representatives from Alberta and British Columbia Monday night failed to reach firm agreement on topic of highway routes to west coast.

The B.C. group called for completion of Highway 16 between Jasper, Alta., and Prince George, B.C. They said this route should be designated as the Second Trans-Canada Highway.

Alberta representatives favored Highway Five from Jasper to Kamloops as the Second Trans-Canada Highway.

Ray Williston, B.C. lands and forests minister, said Highway 16 should be designated as the Second Trans-Canada Highway and then punched through. The link would "prime the natural east to west flow of goods, people and news along northern route."

Phil Gagliardi, B.C. highways minister, said the Jasper-Prince George highway was for the good of both provinces. He said that if Alberta helps

The fathers contend their children need only eighth-grade educations but state law requires that teachers in all schools must have state certificates, given only to teachers with college educations.

Decision Promised On New Fishing Pact

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister H. J. Robichaud said Monday the matter of additional fishing rights for Japan in the North Pacific will be a "top priority" item for the new Liberal government to consider.

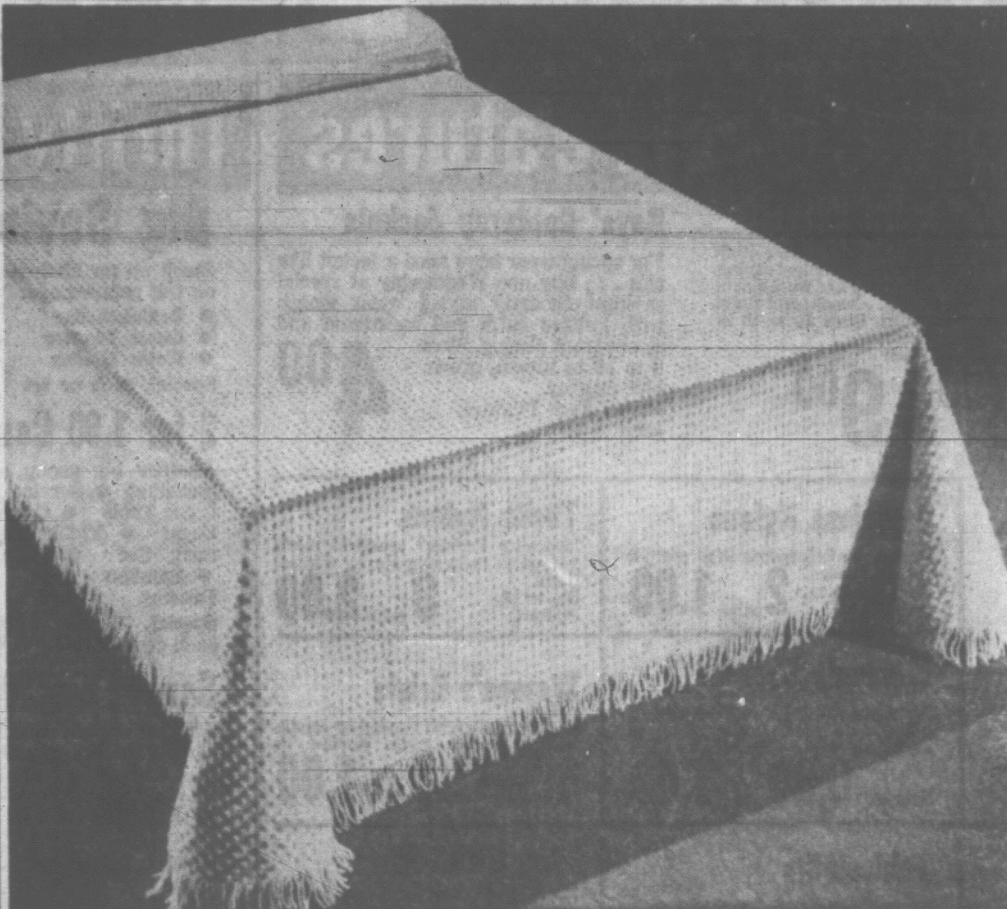

Late last year the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission recommended that Japanese fishermen be allowed to take herring off the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands and halibut in the eastern Bering Sea.

This proposal was accepted by the United States but no decision on it was taken by Canada, Japan, the United States and Canada make up the international commission and all three nations must endorse any change in the fishing treaty.

Mr. Robichaud, who was given the fisheries portfolio Monday in the new cabinet of Prime Minister Pearson, said a decision will be made "within a few weeks."

BOARDING SCHOOLS FOR DELINQUENTS?

VANCOUVER (CP)—A committee investigating juvenile delinquency here said Monday boarding schools, rather than detention homes for offenders, may help solve the problem.

The school board committee, which included the principals of six schools, reported after a year-long study that boarding schools may be an effective alternative to such institutions as the Brannen Lake School for boys near Nanaimo and Burnaby's Willingdon school for girls.

The committee, reporting to the school board, said that in 1961, 690 boys and 93 girls appeared here in juvenile court and 20 per cent of the number were same-year repeaters.

Over a longer period, 65 to 85 per cent were repeaters.

New Gov't Starts Work On Trade, Employment

SOUTH AFRICA CLAMPS DOWN

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—The South African government announced today drastic new powers to curb sabotage and resistance. Political observers described the measures as more sweeping than any previously sought in peace time.

Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster gave a press conference here some details of a new general law amendment bill under which courts will be empowered to impose the death penalty on anyone convicted of being trained in sabotage outside South Africa or who since 1950 advocated invasion of the country.

Police could detain suspects for recurring periods of 90 days without trial, without the courts having the power to intervene or the detained person having access to anyone without permission from the minister or the police.

Reporters who refuse to disclose sources of information about intended acts of sabotage could be so detained.

RETURNED

Pearson Heads Cabinet Group

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson today presided over his second cabinet meeting, a session which took steps to deal with Canada's trade, economic and employment problems.

"We had a useful cabinet meeting," Mr. Pearson told reporters when he emerged from the two-hour meeting.

"We set up a cabinet committee to deal with trade, economic and employment policy."

The cabinet, which he said spent most of its time on that three-pronged question, also:

Dealt with how to get the election-planned royal commission on bicentennialism established "with the least possible delay"; and began work on organizing legislation to be presented to Parliament when it meets May 16.

MEETS CIVIL SERVICE

The prime minister immediately left the East Block, after the cabinet meeting, to meet civil service heads of departments of government.

His purpose in this meeting, he said, was to "indicate my appreciation of them" and to tell them about how he and the members of the government looked forward to co-operating with them.

Mr. Pearson said he would be the chairman of the special cabinet committee on trade, economic and employment policy.

The prime minister also said he was proceeding with arrangements to meet in London with British Prime Minister Macmillan at either the end of April or beginning of May.

He had received through the United Kingdom High Commissioner, Viscount Amory, suggested dates. The meeting, he expected to take place about the middle of next week.

It is expected he will take off for London on May 1.

The prime minister disclosed he had been in touch with President Kennedy, through U.S. Ambassador to Canada Walton Butterworth, to arrange a meeting with the president. The meeting would be "not here nor in Washington." A U.S.-Canada border point such as Ogdensburg, N.Y., where Prime Minister King and President Roosevelt met in the early 40s is expected to be chosen for the site of the Pearson-Kennedy meeting.

Details of the meeting with Mr. Macmillan would be made public at about noon Wednesday, Mr. Pearson said.

He expected to be away "three or four days," and hoped to be able to visit Canadian forces serving in Europe, in a fast, one-night trip from London, before returning home.

PM MARKS BIRTHDAY, VANIER TOO

OTTAWA (CP)—Two men who have seen a lot of each other the last few days celebrate birthdays today.

Prime Minister Pearson will be 66.

Governor-General Vanier will be 75.

Once—in 1928 and 1929—they worked together in external affairs at Canada House in London.

Neither planned any extensive birthday festivities. Mr. Pearson is working in his second day in office and planned a cabinet meeting among other things.

Gen. Vanier suffered a mild heart attack April 9 and has been confined to bed, although fit enough to handle the constitutional duties of a government change-over.

Columbia Heads Work List

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—A full review of the Canada-U.S. Columbia River development treaty is at the top of the worklist of new Resources Minister Arthur Laing.

"A very serious study will be undertaken of the whole matter," Mr. Laing said in an interview today, "starting with an assessment at the departmental level."

He said he believed the first step required to get progress towards a start on the vast development project would be "rapportage" between Canada and the U.S.

Mr. Laing said he felt this would be established when Prime Minister Pearson meets with U.S. President Kennedy next month.

RESUME TALKS

Then, he said, it would be a matter of resuming negotiations with the government of B.C. to resolve any differences which might exist between the B.C. and federal governments.

U.S. Demands Reds Pull Back in Laos

'TAX LAND, RESOURCES INSTEAD OF INCOMES'

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Research Committee on Taxation proposed today that the federal government collect the bulk of its revenue from taxes on land and natural resources, and eliminate or reduce corporation and personal income taxes which "stifle initiative and production."

"We must take a new look at taxation and stop rehashing old ideas," said the committee—long an advocate of land taxes as a central course of revenue.

The committee told the royal commission on taxation that the proposed system would be based on an improved scale of royalties on natural resources and a land tax created by the economic conditions in each community.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. State Department called today for the withdrawal of pro-Communist forces in Laos from the territory which they have "overrun" in recent attacks against neutralist forces.

Press officer Lincoln White said the U.S. position was "that any effective cease-fire should contain provisions that the areas which have been overrun—that they should withdraw from those areas and the neutrals returned to those areas."

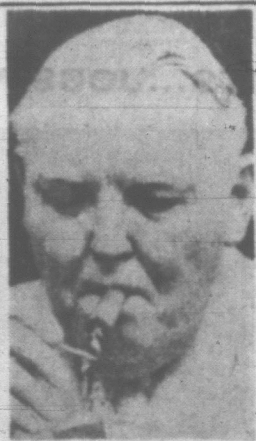

He noted that two major provisions remained to be fulfilled before the United States would consider the present truce really "effective."

Two major provisions remained to be fulfilled before the United States would consider it really "effective."

These were: The Communists should permit international control commission inspection teams to be stationed in the areas they control on the strategic Plain of Jars, which they still refuse to do.

The Communists should withdraw from the areas they now control as a result of attacks in recent weeks against forces of neutralist Gen. Kong Le. The United States has charged these attacks violate the 14-nation peace agreement on Laos.

The firm U.S. statement on withdrawals came as some elements of the 7th Fleet were moved into positions near Laos as a precautionary measure.

Representatives in the West German Parliament of Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democratic Party today named Minister of Economics Ludwig Erhard as their candidate to take over the chancellorship when Adenauer retires in the fall. Cabinet Duties To Be Shuffled

OTTAWA—A reshuffling of some major cabinet duties was announced by Prime Minister Pearson Monday four and a half hours after his government took office.

It was the first action by the Liberal Government, and it began what Mr. Pearson and his colleagues promised would be "90 days of decision and action" after taking power.

The main switch in cabinet responsibilities was the transfer of responsibility for the Canadian Wheat Board from the minister of agriculture to the minister of trade and commerce, now Mitchell Sharp.

Some two years ago as it promoted wheat sales to Communist China, the Diefenbaker government moved responsibility for the wheat board from the department of trade and commerce to agriculture.

In announcing the new change, a statement from Mr. Pearson's office said Mr. Sharp "has a long experience and special knowledge of the grain exporting industry."

No reason was offered for the switch.

Mr. Sharp was deputy minister of trade and commerce in the Liberal government defeated in 1957. At that time the wheat board came under the authority of the then trade minister C. D. Howe.

Political Pressures Hinted

Since Mr. Hamilton assumed responsibility for the board, as agriculture minister, there have been suggestions that the board had come under political pressures.

One other factor believed to have influenced the Pearson move is that Canada's external wheat sales are more a matter of trade than of domestic agriculture administration.

The second major change was a transfer of responsibility for the National Housing Act and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation from public works to the minister of national revenue.

The new revenue minister is Jack Garland, MP for Nipissing, who was Liberal housing critic in the last two parliaments.

The prime minister's announcement also disclosed that the 26-man cabinet sworn into office earlier Monday would not be enlarged by the two ministers promised during the campaign by the Liberals.

These departments are a department of industry and a second minister of agriculture, to look after the interests of eastern agriculture.

Mr. Pearson said the department of industry, when legislation setting it up is approved, will incorporate the present department of defence.

He also promised to allow 800 to 1,000 Cubans to leave the island later this week as part of the deal.

'Spies for Peace' Face Crackdown

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan said today his government will hunt down and prosecute the "Spies for Peace" who disclosed civil defence secrets to the British public.

Shouts of approval greeted Macmillan's statement in the House of Commons.

He said detectives of Scotland Yard's special branch "will try by their inquiries to pin responsibility where it lies."

During the Easter holidays

the "Spies for Peace," a shadowy extremist group, distributed thousands of pamphlets to marchers taking part in ban-the-bomb demonstrations.

The pamphlets disclosed the location and function of regional seats of government designed for use in the event of a nuclear attack.

'STRANGE GOOSE-AND-GANDER BUSINESS'

U.S., Cuba in New Prisoner Swap

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's a strange goose-and-gander business. What's sauce for the United States becomes sauce for communism. It spreads over islands, missiles, prisoners and national desires.

Since 1950 the United States has protected its ally, Chiang Kai-shek, on Formosa, from Communist Chinese attack. The Chinese Communists claim the island, 100 miles from the mainland, is a part of China.

The Russians have moved troops into Cuba, 90 miles from the United States, to protect their ally, Premier Fidel Castro, from any direct U.S. action to abolish him and communism on the island.

Years ago the United States put missiles into Italy and Turkey, right on the Soviets' doorstep. And last fall the Russians put missiles into Cuba on the American doorstep.

In a showdown with the U.S., Russia pulled its Cuban missiles back. But within a few weeks the United States announced it was pulling its missiles out of Italy and Turkey.

The explanation for this was that American Polaris missiles submarines, roaming and hidden under the Mediterranean, are more effective.

In 1957 Col. Rudolph Abel, a Soviet spy, was captured in the United States and sentenced to 30 years. In 1960 Francis Gary Powers, piloting a U.S. U-2 spy plane, was shot down over Russia and jailed. In 1961 another American, Frederick L. Pryor, was jailed as a spy in East Berlin.

The United States on Feb. 10, 1962, agreed to swap prisoners: The one Russian for the two Americans. The deal was negotiated by James B. Donovan, a New York lawyer who had defended Abel.

Last year Donovan negotiated with Castro for the release of 1,113 anti-Castro rebels captured when their 1961 invasion of Cuba failed. Castro also let more than 900 of their relatives leave Cuba. They were ransomed.

The price—at least the price that is known—was $53,000,000 in drugs and baby food which was reported to have been contributed free by big American corporations.

Donovan represented the Cuban Families Committee for the Liberation of Prisoners of War. But the administration of President Kennedy had a hand in it.

FREE 5,000

The Associated Press reports Donovan has also managed to get Castro to free 5,000 people from Cuba. The latest came Monday and this was definitely a swap.

Donovan got Castro to release 21 Americans from Cuban jails and flew back to Miami with them. And Monday Attorney-General Kennedy freed two Cubans.

DONOVAN

... master negotiator

bans and a Cuban-American held in New York on sabotage conspiracy charges since last November. Kennedy said it was done in the national interest.

And Monday night New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller freed Francisco (the Hook) Molina del Rio, a Cuban under a 30-year sentence in New York State prison for slaying a nine-year-old girl. A wild bullet hit her during a fight between pro and anti-Castro Cubans on a street in New York City.

Rockefeller said he had done so upon the assurance of the federal government the move would help secure the release of the 21 Americans who were freed earlier in the day by Castro.

Castro emptied his dungeons of all American prisoners except one longtime enemy Monday.

He also promised to allow 800 to 1,000 Cubans to leave the island later this week as part of the deal.

'Deadbeats' Of Royalty At Wedding?

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Mirror stinging attacks "royal deadbeats," attending the wedding here Wednesday of Princess Alexandra and wealthy businessman Angus Ogilvy.

Hitting out at members of Europe's former royal families, the 4,600,000-circulation newspaper asks in a two-column editorial: "What's going on?"

It goes on to ask whether the wedding of the 26-year-old cousin of Queen Elizabeth and the son of a titled Scottish family is a "marriage between two popular young people" or a publicity campaign for "Europe's busted-down, pensioned off, forgotten but not buried ex-royals from Austria, Spain and Italy."

The Mirror adds: "Why should the Alex-Angus romance degenerate into a rollicking romp at Windsor (a pre-wedding ball was held at Windsor Castle Monday night) for royal exiles, pretenders and pensioners? Is this the welfare state or the royal welfare morgue?"

"Of all people, the Count of Paris is here—the fellow who laughingly calls himself the head of the French royal house."

"Why should the British public be expected to kow-tow to these royal deadbeats who were sacked by their own people years ago?"

FIRE DRILL—NO FIRE

Fire drill at a Los Angeles elementary school was a ruse to get Negro janitor Samuel Ross, an above with his wife and a host of youngsters, out to the playground. There he was given a scroll, a bag of money, and a car, which will enable him to visit his ill father in Mississippi. (AP Wirephoto.)

999,998, 999,999, 1,000,000!

An Edmonton engineer almost missed a one-in-a-million chance this morning.

D. R. Ellis, 37, said he had to step on the gas to catch the ferry MV Queen of Saanich at 9 a.m.

Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay service.

As a result, he and his family are "living it up" here today, courtesy of the B.C. government and the city of Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Beverly, 12; Bobby, 7, and Bruce,

2, had lunch with Mayor R. B. Wilson, went on a tour of district attractions and received souvenir gifts for all the family. A gala time at the Empress Hotel is planned tonight.

"To think we almost missed it. We had three minutes to spare," said Mr. Ellis.

He was flagged down by ferry service manager Monty Aldous after buying his ticket.

"We didn't know what we had done wrong," Mrs. Ellis added.

Their car was plastered with "millionth car" signs. They were given a cabin. They were photographed with Mr. Aldous and with ferry captain Tom Parkinson and led past the waiting cars at this end, in solitary glory.

Mr. Ellis, who is employed by a construction firm, is making his third visit to this area.

He was planning to proceed today to Port Angeles and through the U.S. toward home, but now will enjoy a 24-hour stopover.

The millionth car honor almost fell to a car leaving Victoria aboard Queen of Victoria, at the same time. Long distance phone connection between the two terminals revealed that cars 999,996 to 999,999 boarded at Swartz Bay.

B.C. TOLL FERRY SYSTEM carried its first cars between Tsawwassen and Swartz Bay, June 15, 1960. Today the millionth car rolled ashore at

Swartz Bay. Occupants from left are Bruce Ellis, two, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Ellis, Beverly, 12, and Bobby, 7, of Edmonton, on annual holiday.

Arthur Mayse

Victoria's police surgeon, a peppery, opinionated, outspoken medico by the name of E. Lloyd McNiven, has acquired a considerable file of ghosts during his 33 years on the job.

The one that haunts him most frequently belongs to a child disembowelled by a blunt instrument weighing about a ton and a half, and tossed to die in a suburban intersection.

What bothers him worse, though, is a bitter conviction that public and police regard it as a graver crime to cash a $25 bouncing cheque than to kill a person in traffic.

On the subject of mayhem by automobile in the hands of a drinking driver, Dr. McNiven is especially vitriolic. He feels that Canadian law pussyfoots around this problem, and blames just about everyone in sight.

The thing we have to do, he insists, is toughen ourselves to the point where we can accept the theory that if we transgress while drinking, we must bear the consequences. The corollary, as Dr. McNiven sees it, is that we have to set up machinery which will make conviction less a matter of chance than he finds it today.

What he wants to see, our police surgeon told me—chopping into the fruit salad lunch required by the diet that has trimmed him from 200 pounds plus to a mere 160—is two further amendments to the Criminal Code of Canada.

One would provide stand-and-legal definitions of impairment and drunkenness. ("A definition is absent. Anyway, impairment is neither fish nor fowl. To a medical man, it's a lousy word: where is the cutoff point between impairment and drunkenness?")

The second change urged by Dr. McNiven would make blood testing compulsory for the driver or drivers involved in a traffic accident in which an experienced enforcement officer suspected liquor had played a part.

"Statistics without a blood test don't mean a thing. Having established the alcohol levels that would allow an exact definition, you need the legal ability to test a driver for alcohol content in his bloodstream as soon after he's picked up as possible."

At this point, I wondered aloud whether Dr. McNiven mightn't be crediting liquor with too big a part in traffic accidents. There was also mechanical failure, weather hazard, drivers' physical defects, and the plain bone-headedness of which we're all on occasion guilty.

For that suggestion, the police surgeon had a blunt answer. In nine out of 10 serious accidents he's attended, one or both drivers involved had been drinking.

"Not necessarily blotto," he said, "but happy enough to take chances."

Dr. McNiven's diet doesn't extend to dessert. Over black coffee, he went on to tell me why, even though the subject may be willing, he doesn't run blood tests on suspected drinking drivers.

"Pointless," he said. "No Canadian court will accept the results of a blood test as evidence."

"Another thing: it's too risky, even though under Section 224 of the Criminal Code, I'm allowed to take a blood test with the consent of the accused. As the law stands, there's no provision to protect the blood-taker. The subject can whip round, claim he was in no condition to give consent, and charge me with assault."

I'd heard that a number of European countries, Sweden and Finland among them, are less lenient toward the drinking driver than Canada appears to be.

For the first time during our session, Dr. McNiven looked truly happy.

"That's so," he confirmed. "In Sweden, the blood test is mandatory. The driver with as little as .05 count—that's 50 milligrams of alcohol to 100 cc. of blood—is in serious trouble, and likely to go to jail."

Since a two-ounce drink can bring a prison sentence, parlaying Swedes have learned not to mix aquavit with their gasoline.

We can cut our traffic death-rate too, Dr. McNiven suggests. But he doesn't think we will until we give our highway law some sharp new teeth. Sharp enough to make the cost of drunk driving so high that it's no longer worth the risk.

MAY DAY QUEEN in Belmont Park is Darlene Moyes, 15, of 207 Ganges Crescent, shown at top. Below is Carol Kitchen, 14, of 245 Belmont Road, and Joanne Provencal, 13, of 455 Forward Drive, her two princesses. All three are students at John Stubbs School. They will appear in the May 4 celebration organized by Belmont Park PTA and also will take part in the Victoria Day parade. The students in grades 6, 7, 8 and 9 selected the queen and princesses in a ballot.

Show Birds Destroyed In Farm Fire

Over 150 chickens perished in a fire which destroyed a West Saanich brooder house this morning.

But Saanich fire department managed to prevent the blaze spreading to other buildings housing ducks, pheasants, quail, canaries and other birds.

Among the birds lost was a pair of prize-winning white Leghorns which owner Adrian Gilmore, 4936 Old West Saanich Road, was preparing to show at the Pacific National Exhibition and other fairs this summer.

Mr. Gilmore, former general secretary of the Community Chest here, and now a welfare officer with the provincial government, estimated about $200 worth of birds were burned to death.

He valued the brooder house, which was destroyed in the fire, at about $500 including equipment and eggs.

He said the blaze started at about 11:45 a.m. from an overheated oil heater in the brooder.

"I checked the brooder before leaving for work this morning," he told the Times, "and my wife checked it only 10 minutes before she discovered the fire."

"The floor of the house was covered with dry peat moss, and the whole building went very quickly," he said.

$2,375 Award By McMasters To City Student

A Victoria College student has been granted a $2,375 fellowship to attend one of Canada's top graduate schools in the field of psychology.

Tom Wyatt, of 3374 Connotor Lane, 22, who graduates from the college this spring, will go to McMaster University in Ontario this fall to begin work on his Master of Arts degree, and to work as a graduate assistant in the psychology department there.

His tuition fees are paid for him, and the $2,375 award includes $1,000 for a research project of his own.

Mr. Wyatt has been accepted on a one-year master's program in recognition of academic distinction—it usually takes two.

He hopes to obtain his master's degree in experimental psychology, and then go on to take his Ph.D. degree in clinical or social psychology.

New Power Lines To Boost Supply On Gulf Islands

British Columbia Hydro will provide new undersea and overland power lines this summer to step up power supply to four Gulf Islands.

Vancouver Island region manager Larry Wright announced today that 600 customers and a major industrial user on Saturna, Galiano, Salt Spring and Mayne Islands, will benefit from the $450,000 program.

He said the Vancouver Island transmission system will be tapped at Crofton. A second, three-mile 25,000-volt under-water cable will be linked with Salt Spring.

Additional 25 miles of overhead line and six miles of island-linking undersea cable, will enable the Hydro to boost power conducted from 12,000 to 25,000 volts.

Mr. Wright said a basic crew of 12 men is on the job already and will be augmented as the work develops.

VARIED FARE TONIGHT AT FESTIVAL

A varied session for Music Festival followers is in the offing tonight.

The program will take place at St. Andrew's Kirk Hall auditorium and starting time 7:30.

Highlights will include the women's operatic final, expected to be a closely contested event, and the Piano Sonata championship play-off.

The family ensemble—for any combination of voices and/or instruments—which will take place.

A class for under 12-year-old choir groups will open the program.

Speech choirs were in session this morning at Oak Bay Junior High School. Wednesday all day will see speech arts in progress at Woodsworth Hall while piano and vocal sessions will continue at Cridge and St. Andrew's halls.

Senior and performer piano classes and major adult vocal solo classes will occupy the afternoon.

Oak Bay Won't Buy Radar Unit

Oak Bay police budget of $136,121 has been tentatively approved by estimates committee following a cut of $2,115 earmarked for a traffic control radar set-recorder.

Committee lopped the item during a session in which a review of a superannuation figure and salary adjustments were recommended.

The salary adjustments are a result of a new wage contract establishing Oak Bay rates at a prearranged differential from the recently-settled Victoria police rates.

BREATH ANALYZER New equipment authorized by the committee includes a breath analyzing device for use in sobriety testing—first one approved for a Greater Victoria police force.

Other items sanctioned include a high gain antenna for police radios, a revolver and a polaroid camera, which with the breath analyzer have a total value of $1,425.

Pre-budget review continues with another meeting next week.

OTTAWA STIRS CITY PURRS

Victoria's long-awaited 1962 grant from the federal government finally arrived Monday.

The cheque, in lieu of taxes, gives City Hall $180,300 and a sense of relief to the accounting department.

"It's four months late but we finally have it," said comptroller-treasurer James Bramley who has been struggling to figure out the city's 1963 revenue budget with the rather sizeable loose end dangling.

Estate of $60,369 Left By Retired Brewmaster

Adolf Brachat, brewmaster at the Silver Springs Brewery in Victoria for more than 43 years, left estate to the gross value of $60,369, it was revealed in his will probated at Victoria Courthouse Monday.

Mr. Brachat was 88 when he died on March 5. He lived at 324 Maitland Street.

Row-Home Plan Given Approval

Construction of a $500,000 "row-house" development has been approved in principle by Saanich council. The four-acre site is bounded by Wetherby Road, Shelley Street, McRae Avenue and the city-Saanich boundary four blocks west of Shelbourne Street.

The development, sometimes called town-house, patio-house or court-dwelling, has the Saanich town planning department's approval.

Town planner Tony Parr has been instructed to draw up suitable regulations for controlling this type of housing accommodation which is being introduced for the first time into the Greater Victoria area.

F. G. Rainsford, a forestry engineer, is the promoter of the project.

MORE ACCEPTABLE Council, which has run into strong opposition over construction of high-rise and garden apartments, hopes this type of accommodation will be more acceptable.

Ratepayer opposition has resulted in council rejecting three applications for high-rise apartments in the past three months.

Five applications for conventional apartments also have been rejected.

"Saanich is now faced with the decision to permit or reject this new kind of housing unit," said Mr. Parr. "In large cities or metropolitan areas, this type of development is gaining in popularity."

ENCLOSED GARDEN He described row housing as L-shaped dwellings attached to one another. Each dwelling has an individual enclosed patio-garden and garage. The row-house also has a common green.

"I have seen this type of row housing in England," said Mr. Parr. "They can be most attractive and are desirable living accommodations."

He said good row-housing design creates usable open space in contrast to the usual narrow sideyards, and exposed front and backyards that are typical of single family subdivisions.

FILLS VACUUM "Row-housing also fills an apparent vacuum in the housing market, being particularly attractive to married couples under 25 or over 55 years of age," he said. "Garden maintenance is not as expensive."

Mr. Parr felt that the proposed site is suitable for such development, providing care is taken in designing and siting the buildings.

'No Concrete Ideas' From City-CPR Talks

Mayor R. B. Wilson this morning reported "still no concrete ideas" have emerged from dragging negotiations with the Canadian Pacific Railway over the future of the Empress Hotel's front lawn.

Last February, city council began processing a bylaw to prevent new construction within 100 feet of Government or Belleville in the Inner Harbor precinct.

This was tabled at the CPR's request so that discussions could be held regarding the Empress' lawn and several meetings have been held between Mayor Wilson and a CPR official.

But the latest meeting this morning showed "we are still searching for ideas," said the mayor.

Navy Deserter Jailed After Cheque Spree

A navy deserter was sentenced in city police court today to 18 months definite and six months indeterminate thereafter in the Young Offenders' Unit for a spree of passing bad cheques here March 29 and 30.

He had obtained nearly $3,000 worth of jewelry, cameras, clothing and luggage from downtown merchants.

Charles Bird received the 18-month sentence on each of 16 counts of false pretences, the terms to run concurrently.

The articles were obtained by the accused using a navy identification card, and the cheques were drawn on a fictitious account at the Douglas and Cormorant Street branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Most of the items were sold in beer parlors in Vancouver and will not be recovered, the court was told earlier.

"You are a deserter from the navy," he said referring to the report "and yet you have the shameless audacity to say the country has done nothing for you."

"The country is only the private citizen, after all, and it would be a very poor country indeed which had to depend on a citizen like you," the magistrate said.

The youth, whose family lives in Hamilton, Ont., said he had turned himself over to Vancouver police because he was afraid "the pattern might continue."

He admitted being on probation for taking an automobile without the owner's consent in eastern Canada.

'ONLY BAD POINTS' He told Magistrate William Ostler he had an argument with the probation officer, and complained that as a result, "only the bad points" were brought out in the probation report.

"Well that remark is typical of your whole life, isn't it?" Mr. Ostler asked the accused.

"You are a deserter from the navy," he said referring to the report "and yet you have the shameless audacity to say the country has done nothing for you."

High-Rise Foes Get Through In Saanich Vote

The "Battle of the high-rise apartment" in the Cadboro Bay area is over.

The bylaw to rezone a site on Haro Road to allow construction of a high-rise apartment was defeated at a Saanich council meeting Monday night.

The vote was 5 to 3 in favor of the bylaw—just one vote short to ensure its passage.

BIG VICTORY

The bylaw's defeat represented a major victory for the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association representing more than 1,000 home-owners opposed to the construction of a high-rise apartment in the Bay and surrounding district. It also brought to an end for the present a long and bitter dispute over changes in land use in an area strictly zoned for single family dwellings.

The failure of the bylaw came as a surprise as councillors favoring the high-rise project were expected to carry the day.

But Coun. Hugh Curtis, who indicated at a public hearing last month he would support the zoning bylaw, sided with the reeve and Coun. Todd.

Mr. Curtis said he felt that the town planning department should take "another look" at proposed land uses for the entire area surrounding the Victoria College Gordon Head campus.

"I feel this should be done before council makes any decision on changing land uses," he said.

He noted the planning department had prepared a community plan for the Gordon Head and surrounding districts when there was no question of a college campus in the area.

OUTDATED

This plan is now out of date because of the college campus development, he said.

"In view of this I feel that this whole matter should go back to the lands and planning committee," he added. Councillors who favored the high-rise project were bitter about the bylaw's defeat.

Coun. Casey implied that ratepayers in the Cadboro Bay area had "intimated" some members of council.

"I believe in democracy but not mob rule," he said.

Cadboro Bay ratepayers standing in the council chambers murmured their disapproval.

Mr. Casey predicted there would be an increase of illegal suites in the Cadboro Bay area as the result of council's decision.

"If these people are against apartments why don't they put an end to the operation of illegal suites in the district," he said.

Coun. Passmore said he favored rezoning the land for apartment use because the town planner had recommended the site for such a building.

"I don't always agree with the planner," he said, "but in this case I do."

Coun. Ostler said since the bylaw was defeated he would propose at a lands and planning committee meeting that council adopt part or all of the community plan for the district.

Adoption of the community plan would make it difficult to make any changes in zoning, he said.

B.C. Alberta Delegates Divided on Highway Route

EDMONTON (CP)—A meeting between government officials and chamber of commerce representatives from Alberta and British Columbia Monday night failed to reach firm agreement on topic of highway routes to west coast.

The B.C. group called for completion of Highway 16 between Jasper, Alta., and Prince George, B.C. They said this route should be designated as the Second Trans-Canada Highway.

Alberta representatives favored Highway Five from Jas-

per to Kamloops as the Second Trans-Canada Highway.

Ray Williston, B.C. lands and forests minister, said Highway 16 should be designated as the Second Trans-Canada Highway and then punched through. The link would "prime the natural east to west flow of goods, people and news along northern route."

Phil Gagliardi, B.C. highways minister, said the Jasper-Prince George highway was for the good of both provinces. He said that if Alberta helps push the Highway 16 route, B.C. will match construction, mile for mile, of a highway through the Yellowhead Pass to Kamloops.

Doug Homersham of the Trans-Canada Highway (Yellowhead Route) Association, which also favors the Highway Five route, said "the Yellowhead Pass is the key link to tear down the mountain barrier and allow the marriage of British Columbia and Alberta. Let's complete the Yellowhead route Highway Five and the rest will follow."

10 AMISH MEN FINED $300

JESUP, Iowa (AP)—Ten Amish men were fined $300 each Monday for failure to send their children to schools taught by certified teachers.

The Amish men are fathers of 35 children who attended two schools taught by teachers with only eighth-grade educations.

The fathers contend their children need only eighth-grade educations but state law requires that teachers in all schools must have state certificates, given only to teachers with college educations.

Decision Promised On New Fishing Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—Fisheries Minister H. J. Robichaud said Monday the matter of additional fishing rights for Japan in the North Pacific will be a "top priority" item for the new Liberal government to consider.

Late last year the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission recommended that Japanese fishermen be allowed to take herring off the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands and halibut in the eastern Bering Sea.

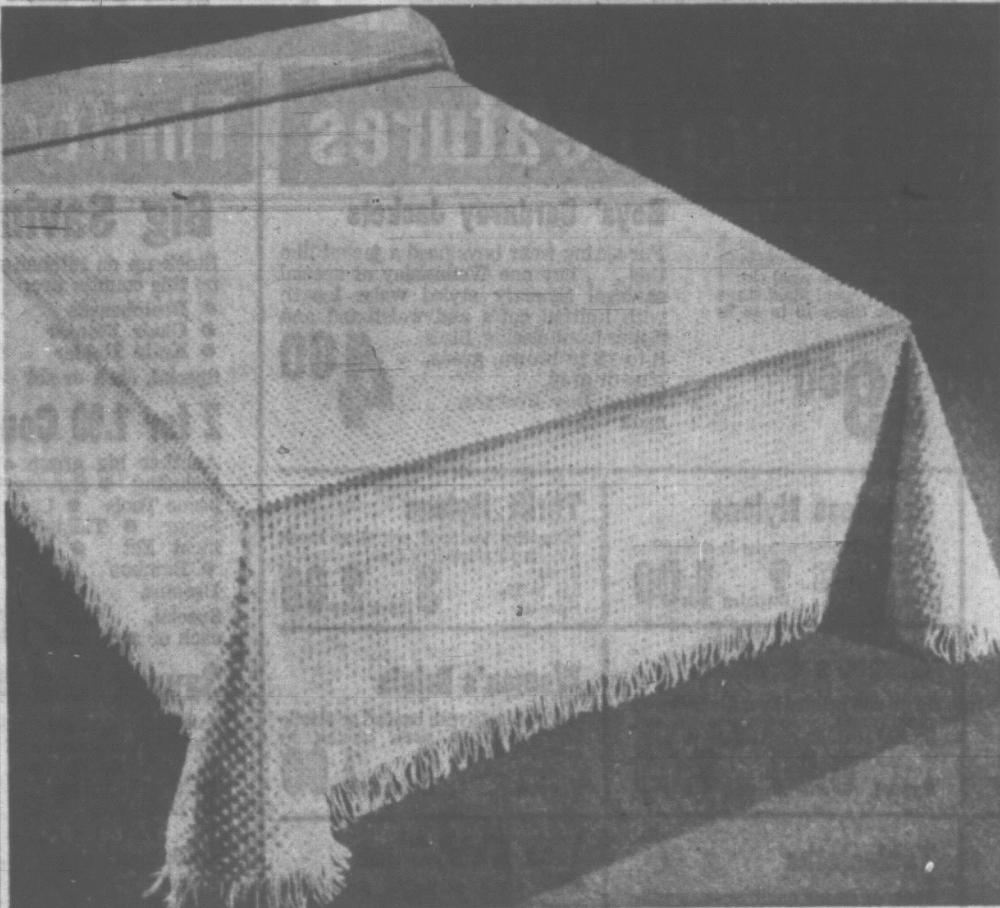

This proposal was accepted by the United States but no decision on it was taken by Canada.

Japan, the United States and Canada make up the international commission and all three nations must endorse any change in the fishing treaty.

Mr. Robichaud, who was given the fisheries portfolio Monday in the new cabinet of Prime Minister Pearson, said a decision will be made "within a few weeks."

Tiger, Fullmer
To Fight Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Tiger, the world middle-weight boxing champion from Nigeria, arrived in New York today to make arrangements for a return bout with ex-champ Gene Fullmer, possibly in Nigeria.

"I think I'll beat him next time," said Tiger, who fought a draw with Fullmer Feb. 23 at Las Vegas. He won the title by out-pointing Fullmer, Oct. 23, 1962.

'STRANGE GOOSE-AND-GANDER BUSINESS'

U.S., Cuba in New Prisoner Swap

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—It's a strange goose-and-gander business. What's sauce for the United States becomes sauce for communism. It spreads over islands, missiles, prisoners and national desires.

Since 1950 the United States has protected its ally, Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa, from Communist Chinese attack. The Chinese Communists claim the island, 100 miles from the mainland, is a part of China.

The Russians have moved troops into Cuba, 90 miles from the United States, to protect their ally, Premier Fidel Castro, from any direct U.S. action to abolish him and communism on the island.

Years ago the United States put missiles into Italy and Turkey, right on the Soviets' doorstep. And last fall the Russians put missiles into Cuba on the American doorstep.

In a showdown with the U.S., Russia pulled its Cuban missiles back. But within a few weeks the United States announced it was pulling its missiles out of Italy and Turkey.

Cabinet Duties
To Be Shuffled

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A reshuffling of some major cabinet duties was announced by Prime Minister Pearson Monday after his government took office.

It was the first action by the Liberal Government, and it began what Mr. Pearson and his colleagues promised would be "60 days of decision and action" after taking power.

The main switch in cabinet responsibilities was the transfer of responsibility for the Canadian Wheat Board from the minister of agriculture to the minister of trade and commerce, now Mitchell Sharp.

Some two years ago as it promoted wheat sales to Communist China, the Diefenbaker government moved responsibility for the wheat board from the department of trade and industry to agriculture.

In announcing the new change, a statement from Mr. Pearson's office said Mr. Sharp "has a long experience and special knowledge of the grain exporting industry."

No reason was offered for the switch.

Mr. Sharp was deputy minister of trade and commerce in the Liberal government defeated in 1957. At that time the wheat board came under the authority of the then trade minister C. D. Howe.

Political Pressures Hinted

Since Mr. Hamilton assumed responsibility for the board, as agriculture minister, there have been suggestions that the board had come under political pressures.

One other factor believed to have influenced the Pearson move is that Canada's external wheat sales are more a matter of trade than of domestic agriculture administration.

The second major change was a transfer of responsibility for the National Housing Act and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation from public works to the minister of national revenue.

The new revenue minister is Jack Garland, MP for Nipissing.

'TAX LAND, RESOURCES INSTEAD OF INCOMES'

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Research Committee on Taxation proposed today that the federal government collect the bulk of its revenue from taxes on land and natural resources, and eliminate or reduce corporation and personal income taxes which "stifle initiative and production."

"We must take a new look at taxation and stop rehashing old ideas," said the committee—long an advocate of land taxes as a central course of revenue.

'STRANGE GOOSE-AND-GANDER BUSINESS'

U.S., Cuba in New Prisoner Swap

The explanation for this was that American Polaris missile submarines, roaming and hidden under the Mediterranean, are more effective.

In 1957 Col. Rudolph Abel, a Soviet spy, was captured in the United States and sentenced to 30 years. In 1960 Francis Gary Powers, piloting a U.S. U-2 spy plane, was shot down over Russia and jailed. In 1961 another American, Frederick L. Pryor, was jailed as a spy in East Berlin.

The price—at least the price that is known—was $53,000,000 in drugs and baby food which was reported to have been contributed free by big American corporations.

Donovan represented the Cuban Families Committee for the Liberation of Prisoners of War. But the administration of President Kennedy had a hand in it.

The Associated Press reports Donovan has also managed to get Castro to free 5,000 people from Cuba. The latest came Monday and this was definitely a swap.

Donovan got Castro to release 21 Americans from Cuban jails and flew back to Miami with them. And Monday Attorney General Kennedy freed two Cubans and a Cuban-American held in New York on sabotage conspiracy charges since last November. Kennedy said it was done in the national interest.

U.S. Demands Reds
Pull Back in Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. State Department called today for the withdrawal of pro-Communist forces in Laos from the territory which they have "overrun" in recent attacks against neutralist forces.

Press officer Lincoln White said the U.S. position was "that any effective cease-fire should contain provisions that the areas which have been overrun—that they should withdraw from those areas and the neutrals returned to those areas."

He noted that two major provisions remained to be fulfilled before the United States would consider the present truce really "effective."

These were:

The Communists should permit international control commission inspection teams to be stationed in the areas they control on the strategic Plain of Jars, which they still refuse to do.

The Communists should withdraw from the areas they now control as a result of attacks in recent weeks against forces of neutralist Gen. Kong Le. The United States has charged these attacks violate the 14-nation peace agreement on Laos.

The firm U.S. statement on withdrawals came as some elements of the 7th Fleet were moved into positions near Laos as a precautionary measure.

'Deadbeats' Of Royalty At Wedding?

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Mirror stinging attacks "royal deadbeats," attending the wedding here Wednesday of Princess Alexandra and wealthy businessman Angus Ogilvy.

Hitting out at members of Europe's former royal families, the 4,600,000-circulation newspaper asks in a two-column editorial: "What's going on?"

It goes on to ask whether the wedding of the 26-year-old cousin of Queen Elizabeth and the son of a titled Scottish family is a "marriage between two popular young people" or a publicity campaign for "Europe's busted-down, pensioned off, forgotten but not buried ex-royals from Austria, Spain and Italy?"

The Mirror adds: "Why should the Alex-Angus romance degenerate into a rollicking romp at Windsor (a pre-wedding ball was held at Windsor Castle Monday night) for royal exiles, pretenders and pensioners? Is this the welfare state or the royal welfare morgue?"

"Of all people, the Count of Paris is here—the fellow who laughingly calls himself the head of the French royal house."

"Why should the British public be expected to kow-tow to these royal deadbeats who were sacked by their own people years ago?"

"Pears there's a lot o' top-drawer men in th' new cabinet."

Mister Robichaud th' way again.

Pearson Heads
Cabinet GroupBy ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson today presided over his second cabinet meeting, a session which took steps to deal with Canada's trade, economic and employment problems.

"We had a useful cabinet meeting," Mr. Pearson told reporters when he emerged from the two-hour meeting.

"We set up a cabinet committee to deal with trade, economic and employment policy."

The cabinet, which he said spent most of its time on that three-pronged question, also:

Dealt with how to get the election-pledged royal commission on bilingualism established "with the least possible delay"; and began work on organizing legislation to be presented to Parliament when it meets May 16.

MEETS CIVIL SERVICE

The prime minister immediately left the East Block, after the cabinet meeting, to meet civil service heads of departments of government.

His purpose in this meeting, he said, was to "indicate my appreciation of them" and to tell them about how he and the members of the government looked forward to co-operating with them.

Mr. Pearson said he would be the chairman of the special cabinet committee on trade, economic and employment policy.

The prime minister also said he was proceeding with arrangements to meet in London with British Prime Minister Macmillan at either the end of April or beginning of May.

He had received through the United Kingdom High Commissioner, Viscount Amory, suggested dates. The meeting is expected to take place about the middle of next week.

It is expected he will take off for London on May 1.

The prime minister disclosed he had been in touch with President Kennedy, through U.S. Ambassador to Canada Walton Butterworth, to arrange a meeting with the president. The meeting would be "not here nor in Washington."

A U.S.-Canada border point such as Ogdensburg, N.Y., where Prime Minister King and President Roosevelt met in the early 40s is expected to be chosen for the site of the Pearson-Kennedy meeting.

Details of the meeting with Mr. Macmillan would be made public at about noon Wednesday, Mr. Pearson said.

He expected to be away "three or four days," and hoped to be able to visit Canadian forces serving in Europe, in a fast, one-night trip from London, before returning home.

RESUME TALKS

Then, he said, it would be a matter of resuming negotiations with the government of B.C. to resolve any differences which might exist between the B.C. and federal governments.

PM MARKS BIRTHDAY,
VANIER TOO

OTTAWA (CP)—Two men who have seen a lot of each other the last few days celebrate birthdays today.

Prime Minister Pearson will be 66.

Governor-General Vanier will be 75.

Once—in 1928 and 1929—they worked together in external affairs at Canada House in London.

Neither planned any extensive birthday festivities.

Mr. Pearson is working in his second day in office and planned a cabinet meeting among other things.

Gen. Vanier suffered a mild heart attack April 9 and has been confined to bed, although fit enough to handle the constitutional duties of a government change over.

Columbia Heads
Work List

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—A full review of the Canada-U.S. Columbia River development treaty is at the top of the workload of new Resources Minister Arthur Laing.

"A very serious study will be undertaken of the whole matter," Mr. Laing said in an interview today, "starting with an assessment at the departmental level."

He said he believed the first step required to get progress towards a start on the vast development project would be "rapprochement" between Canada and the U.S.

Mr. Laing said he felt this would be established when Prime Minister Pearson meets with U.S. President Kennedy next month.

Then, he said, it would be a matter of resuming negotiations with the government of B.C. to resolve any differences which might exist between the B.C. and federal governments.

SOUTH AFRICA
CLAMPS DOWN

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—The South African government announced today drastic new powers to curb sabotage and resistance. Political observers described the measures as more sweeping than any previously sought in peace time.

Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster, gave a press conference here some details of a new general law amendment bill under which courts will be empowered to impose the death penalty on anyone convicted of being trained in sabotage outside South Africa or who since 1950 advocated invasion of the country.

Police could detain suspects for recurring periods of 90 days without trial, without the courts having the power to intervene or the detained person having access to anyone without permission from the minister or the police.

Reporters who refuse to disclose sources of information about intended acts of sabotage could be so detained.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today his government will hunt down and prosecute the "Spies for Peace" who disclosed civil defence secrets to the British public.

Shouts of approval greeted Macmillan's statement in the House of Commons.

He said detectives of Scotland Yard's special branch "will try by their inquiries to pin responsibility where it lies."

NEW CIVIC THEATRE

Plush Seat Plan
For Show-Goers

Victorians will have a personal chance to help pretty up the civic theatre and also have their names put on the seats. Centennial Square committee Monday approved a recommendation to open a "seat endowment fund" to the public.

By sending in $10 to the city comptroller-treasurer, any Victorian can help put an extra quality plush covering on one of the 999 seats in the civic theatre.

In return, the committee will see that the donor's name on a small brass plate is fixed to the seat.

The idea came from a citizens' advisory sub-committee helping plan renovation of the civic theatre which reported that $80 already had been donated for the purpose.

City planner Rod Clark said full subscription to the fund would add more than $9,000 to the capital fund.

He said normal funds would be used for refurbishing the existing seats to a standard level but the citizen donations would be used to add a frill—extra high quality materials for re-covering.

"This is most encouraging," said Mayor R. B. Wilson.

"It shows the community is behind the civic theatre project."

In other business, the committee decided to call for tenders for demolition of the Tavor Tire and Bridgewood service stations in the precinct area.

They would be torn town next month, followed by the rest of the buildings which leases expire June 30.

The $90,000 land assembly cost paid by the city will be added to the $195,000 senior citizen recreation building estimate for three-way sharing by the city, senior citizens and provincial government.

Committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toone was instructed to meet with recreation committee chairman Ald. Cecil Parrott to discuss possible methods of administering the recreation centre. This could lead to formation of an overall recreation commission for all city recreational facilities.

ADVISERS
Silver Threads officials were appointed as advisers to the architect designing the senior citizens recreation centre.

Welfare administrator W. H. Hooson was authorized to arrange a meeting of all senior citizens' organizations to discuss a public canvass for their one-third share of the cost.

Eskimo Sentenced To Life Term
For Slaying Boy

PROBISHER BAY, NWT (CP)—Mingerlak, 45, an Eskimo, was sentenced to life imprisonment Monday after pleading guilty in territorial court to a charge of non-capital murder.

The sentence, mandatory for the charge, was passed by Mr. Justice J. H. Sissons of Yellowknife.

Mingerlak was originally charged with capital murder in the Feb. 6 jockknife slaying of six-year-old Salamonie in a house in an Eskimo section of the community.

The charge was reduced after a Crown-appointed defence counsel, Arthur Maloney of Toronto, told the court Mingerlak wanted to plead guilty to non-capital murder.

Evidence in court was Mingerlak had gone to the house after drinking at a hotel. He made advances to the boy's pregnant mother, but was refused and stabbed her 20 times. He then turned on the boy.
